Jury Subpoenas Sheriff Jackson In Leaflet Quiz

Skinny Skribbles

Around And About Town

With G. F. (Skinny) Skirvin

One day I wanted to count my friends in the shortest time possible. So I circulated a report that I had lost my job.

—MARY LANIGAN HEALY.

My correspondent mails the above to me under the title, "Brief Task." The assumption is that you get your answer quickly and negatively; that you lose your friends the same time you lose your job. The refreshing exception to the rule is what makes life worth living.

Gave the Kiwanis dahlia show the once over last Wednesday evening. Besides the many other varieties I found Fred Newcomb and Lyle Mitchell, surrounded by a flock of beauties, and they were not dahlia. Just for the moment they took my eyes off the flowers, but of course I have a somewhat transient eye on occasions. Oh, well, it was a great show, and thanks to James Cramm and George Trapp who judged the entries, which took all the responsibility off my hands. They can settle with the exhibitors when I couldn't.

I have a ticket for the Los Angeles county fair with 12 admission dates unchecked. If you think the ticket is good for admissions you may have it.

That four-power agreement assembled all the kilowatts in two stations.

Valencia oranges for Christmas, will be something different for the eastern markets, but according to a Placencia packing house, they are going to have them. In ordinary seasons the valencia crop is usually out of the way for the Thanksgiving navel. This season you may take your choice.

If Russia is as strong as she says she is why doesn't she start out and lick everybody.

The Prime Minister of Great Britain, which some people have begun to believe is not so great, refers to the United States as "the most powerful nation in the world." That's quite an admission for him to make before the house of commons. Maybe it was just for American consumption. Or maybe Britain wants something more from us.

For the next few days my mail will be of the same variety it has been ever since I've been paying bills.

Oranges slipped a nickel per packed box last week. Why don't some one buy the orange industry a set of chains?

New model automobiles—the 1939 variety are appearing on the sales floors. They are tempting. Lot o' changes since flivver days.

There is one item about railroad magazines which fails to percolate consistently through my system. It is the preponderance of highway scenes and a dearth of railroad illustrations. Almost every other form of transportation is featured but the steam lines. Will the committee on whistles take this up with the propaganda committee?

What a lovely world! Citizen who had seen better days makes a comparison of his condition with a fellowman who was being assisted into a wheel chair. The panorama of life changed. He had lost his wealth but still had his health. Probably the other fellow had lost both. It was apparent health had disappeared. There is a silver lining even in misfortune.

Bob Munro wanted me to take a trip across the Sahara desert with him and I wanted to go, but an intervening circumstance prevented. So he took a few hundred employees of the telephone company. That was a wise precaution. If there was any line trouble he had help. The trip was made in cars. No one wanted to walk a mile for a camel. It is an interesting disclosure of the great desert as depicted and experienced.

Deputy Will Go Before Probers Voluntarily

Working quickly toward what they hope will be a solution of the "Fools Rush In" libel pamphlet case, members of the specially summoned county grand jury focused their attention on the sheriff's office today.

Sheriff Logan Jackson, closeted with the jury to give testimony for more than two hours late yesterday, was formally subpoenaed today. He had appeared twice before, both times voluntarily and without being summoned.

Other witnesses called to give testimony in the pamphlet case today were Jesse L. Elliott, Santa Ana constable who led Jackson in the primary election race for sheriff, and Supervisor N. E. West. Each testified for about an hour.

Yesterday afternoon the jury heard five candidates for district attorney in the recent primary election. Elmer Guy and Joel Ogle were with the jury long, with George Holden, A. P. Nelson and Maxwell Burke appearing briefly.

Reports were that not all the witnesses could offer valuable testimony in the pamphlet case, but that the jury was calling all available witnesses to see what they might know about the libelous leaflet which appeared just before the primary election.

Sheriff Jackson was served with the jury's subpoena shortly before noon by Coroner Earl Abbey, the only public official who can serve papers on or arrest a sheriff.

Dist. Atty. W. F. Menton was with the jury most of this morning, questioning the witnesses. He left, however, before Supervisor West was through talking with the jury.

West was called from the board of supervisors' meeting by Foreman William Schumacher. Elliott had been called informally yesterday afternoon, but had to return this morning to testify before the jury.

The defendants were indicted here last December on charges of using the mails to defraud after federal agents conducted a seven-month investigation of the company, which had assets of $200,000,000 and 300,000 policy holders. The company was reorganized two years ago and the present case does not involve the new concern.

WAR OR WORRY?
When Lily Damita cancelled passage to Europe she didn't explain why—whether fear of war or worry over poor health of husband Errol Flynn.

Jackson Income Revealed

Sheriff Logan Jackson's gross income is more than $1000 a month, it was revealed today.

His salary — $2892 a year — amounts to less than one-third his receipts, which include additional sums as profit on feeding county jail prisoners, mileage and fees for service of papers and process, and transportation of prisoners to state institutions.

HERVEY TELLS BOARD
The figures, the sheriff's own computation of his income since 1935, were revealed to the board of supervisors today by Edgar B. Hervey of San Diego, special attorney for the board who is prosecuting the county's $100,000 "fee suit" against Jackson.

Jackson's attorneys countered with a statement that his expenses—including maintenance of personal cars for transporting prisoners, attorneys' fees and other expense—almost eat up the profit he makes from feeding jail prisoners for a fraction over eight cents a meal, when he is allowed by law to collect 12 cents per inmate in the county.

AUDITOR ASKED
Hervey revealed the figures, furnished him yesterday as part of a deposition stipulation preparatory to trial of the $100,000 suit in December, as he appeared before the county board to get permission to hire an auditor, not more than $150 to go through Jackson's books.

Although Jackson has been sheriff since Jan. 1, 1931, figures previous to 1935 were not immediately available because of Jackson's statement that he has no record for years before the state income tax law went into effect and he was required to make a return on his official income. (The federal government collects no income tax on officials.)

PROFIT ON MEALS
Profit made by the sheriff from feeding prisoners since Jan. 1, 1935, was about $19,000, Hervey revealed, or about $16,000 for 1935, 1936 and 1937 and about $3000 from Jan. 1 of this year until August, when the suit was filed.

ROTARY HEARS DISTRICT HEAD
Fred Mack, of San Bernardino, district governor of Rotary International, addressed members of the Santa Ana club at the noon luncheon meeting in Masonic Temple today.

He spoke on the history of Rotary and the ideals of the organization. Mack especially praised the work of the local club with the Boy Scouts.

Johnny Ward, assistant coach at Santa Ana Junior college, spoke briefly on this season's football team. He said many of the best players are finding it difficult to stay in college because of finances, and urged anyone having part time employment hire the jaysee men.

Toscanini Sails For U. S. Tomorrow

ROME, (AP) — A member of the household of Arturo Toscanini at Milan said tonight the famed orchestra conductor had left Milan at 4 p. m. for Cherbourg, France, to sail tomorrow on the Normandie for New York.

Previously a government source here said Toscanini had a passport.

Hit-Runner Kills Man, 72, In Anaheim

A hit-run driver killed a 72-year-old man in Anaheim early today.

Coroner Earl Abbey reported Charles N. Phillips, of Anaheim, was struck down at the intersection of North and Los Angeles streets shortly after 6 a. m. as he was walking to work.

Phillips died at Anaheim sanitarium two hours later. An employee of the Independent Ice company of Anaheim, he had resided there for the past 27 years.

Coroner Abbey said an inquest is pending. Meanwhile, police were checking automobiles throughout the county in an effort to find the death car. Police said no one saw the accident, although Raymond Solerzano, 412 South Claustrana, reported hearing a crash and seeing a car speed from the scene.

The body of Phillips was removed to Backs, Terry, and Campbell funeral home in Anaheim. He is survived by a brother, Raymond Phillips, of Anaheim, and a daughter, Mrs. Edward Dohm, of Santa Ana.

FASCISTS HELD BUSY IN U. S.

WASHINGTON, (AP) — An Italian anti-fascist told a congressional committee today that a branch of Mussolini's secret police was operating in this country "obviously under instructions of the Italian ambassador at Washington."

Girolana Valenti, chairman of the Italian anti-fascist committee, declared also that "Italian consular officials and secret fascist agents are spreading fascist propaganda throughout the ranks of the 200 Italian-American organizations in the United States."

The committee witness added "one of the sad notes" in fascist activity is that "many of the Italian-Americans who are engaged in subversive activities are actually on relief rolls or employed by WPA and other government agencies."

VICE FOREMAN IN HANDCUFFS

LOS ANGELES, (AP) — The vice-foreman of the county grand jury, Maurice Wingo, oil company president, was arrested on a speeding charge today and taken to the Wilshire police substation in handcuffs because he refused to sign a ticket saying he was traveling 54 miles an hour.

He was released later on orders of Capt. Thomas Lofthouse of the city motorcycle patrol. Capt. Lofthouse said Wingo was freed without signing the ticket. The arresting officer, V. C. Castle, was instructed to write a complete report.

Wingo told Castle he was a grand juror en route to his official duties and would not sign a ticket for more than 40 miles an hour.

Two Promotions in Staff of WPA

LOS ANGELES, (AP) — Lieut. Col. Donald H. Connolly, Southern California WPA director, announced two promotions in the relief organization today, occasioned by the recall of Major Lee S. Dillon to active service again with the army engineering corps.

Dillon, assistant director, is to take a rivers and harbors engineering post in New York City. His work will be assumed by Capt. Robert J. Fleming, director of women's and professional projects in the southland. Linton H. Smith, director of the federal arts project, will retain that office and add to his duties those of Capt. Fleming.

Glendale to Vote Again on School

GLENDALE, (AP) — The board of education today voted to call another special election Tuesday, Oct. 25, on a $1,191,408 bond issue for a junior high school expansion program.

The program failed by only 44 votes of obtaining the necessary two-thirds majority in an election Sept. 27.

Attempted Murder of Girl, 18, Charged Against Talbert Man

Accused by an 18-year-old girl of burglary, assault with a deadly weapon and attempted murder, William Hernandez, 31-year-old Talbert laborer, was in the county jail today.

The girl assertedly was stabbed in the right thigh during a fracas last Saturday when she attempted to flee from the suspect.

The victim, Dorothy Adams, of Colonia Juarez, near Talbert, told deputies she saw Hernandez approaching the house last Saturday. She said she began locking doors and fled outside when Hernandez broke through one door and came inside. He pursued her into a chicken house, she said, knocked her down and said: "I'm going to kill you."

He stabbed at her with a long knife, she said, missing her heart only because she brushed the blade aside, causing it to scratch her shoulder. As they struggled, she said the knife stabbed her in the thigh.

Then, the girl related, a neighbor named Nocha Pierra came to her rescue, knocking Hernandez unconscious with a length of pipe. Hernandez was jailed on a warrant issued by Justice Chris Fann of Huntington Beach.

Officer Out After Battle

Officer H. E. Holmes, 53, has been suspended from the Santa Ana police department for "gross violation of duty" in allegedly failing to protect his wife from assault and battery at the hands of another woman.

Police Chief Floyd Howard revealed today Holmes has been suspended pending a hearing by the civil service commission for further investigation of the charges. The hearing has been set for Thursday night at 8 p. m. in the city judge's office, it was announced.

HOLMES ON SIDELINES
Chief Howard, in his recommendation to the civil service commission, said Officer Holmes was suspended when his wife, Myrtle Holmes, was assaulted by Gladys Durham of Santa Ana on Sept. 14. He said Holmes knew that assault and battery was about to be committed upon his wife, and that he failed to separate the two women.

Holmes stood within a distance of 10 to 15 feet of the two women during the fracas without interfering, Chief Howard said. Mrs. Holmes reportedly suffered two black eyes.

FOUND GUILTY
At the trial, Electrical Inspector W. O. Packard testified in behalf of Mrs. Holmes, while Officer Holmes testified for the defendant. Holmes claimed at the trial he had separated the two women.

DISMISSAL URGED
At the investigation of the charges will be made by the civil service commission at the meeting Thursday, when it acts on the recommendation of Chief Howard that Officer Holmes be dismissed from the police department and the classified civil service.

Howard said in his recommendation Holmes' conduct was a gross violation of duty and a blow to the police department.

Holmes could not be reached for a statement.

Holmes was appointed patrolman of the Santa Ana police department July 1, 1934. He resigned Sept. 19, 1932, and was reinstated on Oct. 1, 1934, serving until his suspension last week.

PLEADS GUILTY TO ASSAULT

Leo Collins, 18-year-old River-side negro CCC worker, today pleaded guilty to a charge of assaulting his superior officer with a baseball bat and asked Superior Judge James L. Allen for probation.

By a coincidence, Judge Allen opened his attorneys' list to appoint counsel for Collins and named Sam L. Collins, former district attorney, to represent the youth in his probation hearing, set for Friday.

Collins—the defendant—admitted he struck George Hutchinson, forest guard, with a baseball bat because Hutchinson reported the defendant for insubordination.

President Wants Labor Conference

HYDE PARK, N. Y. (AP) — Informal persons said today the White House believes business would be greatly stimulated if warring factions of industry and labor would stop calling each other names and would sit around the conference table to work out their differences.

These persons said it was thought in White House circles that the recent crisis in Europe has an analogy in the industrial and economic problems in this country.

In Europe, they said there was sabre rattling and mobilization of armies which cheated an artificial crisis between nations. At home, they added, a parallel is to be found in the issuance of extravagant statements, misrepresentation of government policies for political benefit, the painting of over-dark pictures on the economic outlook and the setting up of bogies to frighten business and industry.

Britain, Italy; France, Germany Map New Peace

F. D. R. Is Cheered

PARIS, (AP) — The chamber of deputies approved the foreign policy of Premier Daladier tonight by a vote of 555 to 75 after hearing the premier's defense of the four-power Munich accord for the dismemberment of Czechoslovakia.

The chamber gave overwhelming endorsement to the accord which averted a European war and to his plan to seek "new friendships" with Germany and Italy.

PARIS, (AP) — Premier Daladier today announced the beginning of a new era of friendly relations with Germany and Italy, and paid homage to President Roosevelt's peace messages during Europe's crisis week.

The chamber of deputies stood as one man to cheer when the premier spoke of "the great, generous and logical voice of President Roosevelt" in referring to the President's appeals.

Reading a ministerial declaration on the four-power agreement over Czechoslovakia, he said that his meeting with Adolf Hitler at Munich last week marked the start of friendly relations between France and Germany.

He declared France had decided to send an ambassador to Rome to resume cordial relations with Italy, in a virtual state of suspension for two years owing to France's refusal to recognize the conquest of Ethiopia.

The premier carried into the session cabinet approval for proposed decree powers to "rebuild France's economy and finances."

DICTATORSHIP, AIM
The declaration started reading the declaration to a jammed chamber of deputies, his finance minister, Paul Marchandeau, said in the corridor the government insists parliament vote it full financial and economic decree powers tonight.

He said the powers, which would amount to a jammed temporary dictatorship, would be requested until Dec. 13, and that Daladier would stake the life of his government on the issue.

CZECHS PRAISED
Daladier, in the name of the entire government, paid homage to the "courage of the Czechoslovak nation and its leaders."

He declared Czechoslovakia's present trials enable it to "re-forg its political unity." He also paid tribute to British collaboration with France "during these difficult weeks."

The ministerial declaration, which also was read in the senate by former Premier Camille Chautemps, said:

His work as an inmate instructor at the Strington sub-prison school brought favorable attention.

So prison officials named him director of academic courses at the prison school and resident physician.

F. D. R. Given Credit for Europe Peace

LONDON, (AP) — Poet Laureate John Masefield gives credit to President Roosevelt for helping to save peace.

In a letter to the Times today, Masefield said:

"Three things gave us our present peace: First, the heroic self-sacrifice of a proud and noble prime minister; and then, in large measure, the power of President Roosevelt's telegrams (appealing for peaceful negotiation of the Czechoslovak dispute)."

"Let this country never forget his magnificent, wise, timely and perhaps decisive intervention at an instant when peace seemed impossible."

SLAVS WANT OWN DISTRICT
LONDON, (AP) — A Reuters (British news agency) dispatch from Prague tonight reported that the Czechoslovak government under General Jan Syrový had resigned.

The government will be reconstituted with Syrový continuing as premier, the dispatch said.

PRAGUE, (AP) — The Czechoslovak government today was negotiating with representatives of the Slovak minority on the question of complete autonomy for Slovakia.

Minister Without Portfolio Cernak raised the question in the name of the Slovak People's party.

The official view was that there was no obstacle in the way of granting autonomy for the 49,000 square mile Slovak section of eastern Czechoslovakia provided Slovakia remained a part of the republic. An agreement was expected in the near future.

BUDAPEST, (AP) — Numerous war veterans more than 45 years old had orders to report to the nearest army recruiting station today as the Hungarian government pressed its claims to Hungarian minority territories of Czechoslovakia.

The requisition of certain raw materials and orders prohibiting the exports of metals, textiles, chemicals and leather were made known today, apparent indications that Hungary was preparing for all eventualities.

Gunmakers Strike

VALENCIENNES, France. (AP) Two hundred workers of the National Artillery factory at Denain, went on strike today when they were asked to work more than the usual 40 hour week on guns ordered by the war ministry.

3 Kidnap Suspects May Be Released

BAKERSFIELD, (AP) — Sheriff's Deputy Bill Lyons said today preliminary investigation indicates the three suspects held here with Le Roy Nichols in connection with the kidnaping of Mrs. Norma Weeks, Yuba county rancher's wife, will be released.

Unless later developments change the situation, Deputy Lyons said northern California officers, who came here last night to delve into the background of the quartet, probably will return only with Nichols.

Spain Is Pact Key

ROME, (AP) — Diplomatic sources disclosed today that overtures for the settlement of differences between Britain and Italy had begun in a meeting between the Earl of Perth, Britain's ambassador, and Foreign Minister Count Galeazzo Ciano.

Diplomats said the British ambassador had called on Ciano to "discuss the possibilities of further appeasement" in the relations of the two countries.

Diplomatic quarters believed the prospects of bringing the Anglo-Italian treaty of last April 16 into effect were discussed. That pact has been inoperative because of the condition of a "settlement" of the Spanish civil war involving withdrawal of Italian troops from Spain has not been met.

Diplomats had expected some move toward effectuating the April pact since the four-power agreement on Czechoslovakia and the new understanding between Prime Minister Chamberlain and Reichsfuehrer Hitler for handling issues between Britain and Germany.

The announcement of the Perth-Ciano conference, however, came earlier than diplomats expected, particularly since fascist authorities had indicated that an Anglo-Italian understanding still depend on a "settlement" in Spain.

PWA RUNNING OUT OF MONEY

WASHINGTON, (AP) — Administrator Ickes said today PWA expected to exhaust available funds during the next two weeks, leaving thousands of Public Works projects for which no allotments can be made.

If all the 12,304 new applications received by PWA before the deadline last Friday were to be approved, Ickes said, they would require loans of $768,298,529 and grants of $1,881,884,891.

PWA, however, had only $965,000,000 for its 1938 program and this less than $100,000,000 remains unallotted.

'Great Gilbert' to Serve 2-5 Years

LOS ANGELES, (AP) — "The great Gilbert," vaudeville stage hypnotist whose real name is Robert Avery Gilbert, 49, was sentenced today to serve two to five years in San Quentin prison for contributing to the death of an expectant young mother.

Judge A. A. Scott denied probation to Gilbert, who was convicted of conspiracy to perform an abortion on Mrs. George Colombos, 23. Her husband, George, testified Gilbert proposed to induce a premature birth through hypnotic influence.

British Parliament Continues Debate of Munich Agreement

EARL BALDWIN GOES TO AID OF CHAMBERLAIN

LONDON, (AP)—Earl Baldwin, Neville Chamberlain's predecessor as prime minister, today endorsed Chamberlain's Munich accord while the angry opposition renewed its assault on that pact for the dismemberment of Czechoslovakia.

Baldwin, in his maiden speech in the house of lords, declared that "when the prime minister took that decision to go to Berchtesgaden there was nothing else on earth he could have done and I thank God that he was able to do it."

OPPOSITION AROUSED

While Baldwin spoke the labor opposition in the house of commons bitterly assailed Chamberlain for the four power Munich agreement. It was the second day of debate on the prime minister's policies which was expected to continue through tomorrow.

rejoice that these meetings (between Chamberlain and Adolf Hitler) have taken place," Baldwin told a cheering house, "and in what my old colleague and present chief has accomplished. I know no other man who would have brought it to a successful issue."

Baldwin was given a tremendous ovation.

Baldwin asserted "I would mobilize our industry tomorrow" in the face of Europe's war threats.

"Whatever happens this coming year is bound to present many difficulties and on how we face them might depend the settlement of Europe and of the world," he continued.

LOAN BROUGHT UP

The opposition attack was resumed—as triumphal Nazi legions occupied further Sudeten areas of Czechoslovakia—by Clement R. Attlee, leader of the labor opposition, with a private notice of an "urgent" question to the prime minister.

Attlee demanded that debate not be shut off before time "back benches"—the rank and file of the house of commons—had an opportunity to speak. He also urged that questions concerning Britain's guarantee of Czechoslovakia's new frontiers and a British loan to Prague should be threshed out thoroughly.

The prime minister came to the house after a conference with Raimon De Valera, prime minister of Ireland and newly elected president of the league assembly.

PROPAGANDA PROTESTED

Replying to a question on German radio propaganda designed to create differences between Czechs and Slovaks, Chamberlain said: "His majesty's ambassador in Berlin has already represented to the German government the desirability of restraint in the German press and German wireless. We are awaiting his report before we consider whether further representations are required."

Herbert Morrison, Laborite, reopened the debate proper with an assertion that "government has consistently cold-shouldered the League of Nations and steadily turned its back on collective security and collective organization of peace."

RUSSIA IGNORED

"I honestly believe," he said, "that in these negotiations with Herr Hitler the prime minister has been frightened out of his life."

"The government has encouraged rather than discouraged aggression. It either sympathized with the dictators or feared the dictators, whose psychology it could not understand."

Referring to Soviet Russia, Morrison said Great Britain "had adopted an attitude in her foreign policy of discrimination against an exceedingly important

Sudetens Cry 'Heil' as Nazi Troops Arrive

Sudetens Germans raised their right hands in the Nazi salute and shouted enthusiastic "heils" as this German artillery division entered the Sudeten town of Klein-Philippstreu as part of the German token of occupation of western Czechoslovakia. The German chancellor, Adolf Hitler, himself entered Sudetenland, and in greeting his new subjects, pledged that the new territory never would be taken from the reich.

military power for whom members of the house would have thanked God if we had gone into war."

Meanwhile, Great Britain rushed into an urgent new rearmament race in an effort to preserve the Munich peace.

When Morrison said the 10,000,000 pounds ($50,000,000) loan Britain already had arranged to make to Czechoslovakia was "proof of the sense of shame of the British government," cabinet members heatedly shouted:

"Take the country's opinion of that."

Morrison said Chamberlain's broadcast to the empire and the United States last week "gave a very dangerous impression of sheer funk."

There were repeated opposition cheers for Morrison and shouts of "no!" from the cabinet benches as he continued to denounce Chamberlain.

Morrison said Chamberlain in his conversations with Adolf Hitler "could have been in an immensely superior position strategically if, instead of being a rather nervous spokesman of a semi-detached Britain, he had been the authorized spokesman of Britain, France, the Soviet Union, Czechoslovakia and possibly of other powers in Europe."

LOUIS DEBATE

Debate went forward simultaneously in the house of lords. Baron Strabolgi, Laborite, said: "We hold India because the people there rely on our word. They believe we stand by our friends. What are we going to say to them now? Is our prestige as high as it was a fortnight ago in India, or anywhere else?"

"Jews in Vienna are being made to clean the lavatories of storm troopers; Prince Starhemberg's mother is being made to sweep the streets in Vienna because she was a member of the Monarchist party."

"That is what Nazi domination means. That is to what you have handed over the unfortunate Czechs and Jews in the occupied Sudeten districts."

WARRANT FOR SALLY RAND

LOS ANGELES, (AP)—A bench warrant was issued for Sally Rand, fan and bubble dancer, today because she did not appear for trial on charges of biting, scratching and generally assaulting Miss Hazel Drain in an argument over some candid camera snapshots she charged Miss Drain and her escort made in a theater.

Miss Rand's embarrassed lawyer, Milton Golden, apologized to Municipal Judge Harold Landreth for her non-appearance. Golden said she had "broken faith with her attorney and with the court."

Thousands 'Heil' Hitler as He Continues Advance Into Sudetenland With Nazi Army

KARLSBAD, (Karlovy Vary), Sudetenland, (AP)—Chancellor Adolf Hitler, making a triumphal tour of his newly annexed Sudeten territory, told an electrified Sudeten German audience today "I didn't know how I would some time get here, but I did know that I would come."

Speaking only a short distance from where Sudeten Leader Konrad Henlein said April 24 formulated his famous eight demands, the Fuehrer said:

"For 20 years you remained faithful to your volkstrum (racial nationalism)."

"And for 20 years I remained faithful to my belief in the German people."

"So we both find each other in our common racial community, in our greater reich which nobody will ever be able to destroy again."

"Thousands of 'heils' by the enthusiastic crowd punctuated the Fuehrer's speech."

"We have every reason to be proud of this great German reich, whose Fuehrer I am," he continued.

"And this Germany is just as proud of you Sudeten Germans. In this hour we can do nothing else than think about our eternal German people and our German reich."

Hitler was given a tremendous ovation when he arrived at this world famed spa.

Many in the audience had been present at the Sudeten party convention in April and recalled that Henlein at that time was content to ask only that the Sudetens be given full autonomy in the Czechoslovak state and the right to practice their Nazi beliefs.

Today they saw in Hitler the incarnation of their dream come true—union with Germany.

The streets before the theater where he spoke briefly were jammed with enthusiastic Sudeten Germans, gathered to welcome their Fuehrer.

On an elevation behind the theater stood an honor guard of blackshirted SS men, the Elite guard, and army detachments which had preceded Hitler into the city.

The Fuehrer reviewed the troops and then, escorted by Sudeten Leader Konrad Henlein, went to the balcony of the theater which was richly garlanded with flowers and covered with swastika flags.

FRENCH MOVE FOR PEACE AND CHEER F. D. R.

the history of the world, everything was undertaken publicly and discussed openly before the people.

NO SECRETS

"If peace has been maintained and preserved it is because we have not had recourses to plots of secret diplomacy. We acted in the light of day, under the control of our peoples, and I insist here that the people, all the people, wish peace."

Describing his Sept. 18 visit to London with Foreign Minister Georges Bonnet, Daladier told how Prime Minister Chamberlain acquainted them with the findings of Viscount Runciman, unofficial British mediator in the German-Czechoslovak dispute.

FACE REALITIES

"Need I tell you with what emotion we learned that the English observer, in his soul and conscience, concluded it was impossible to make Czechoslovaks and Sudeten Germans live together any longer when all our efforts had consisted in making Czechoslovakia turn toward the federalism which would have assured the integrity of its territory?" he asked.

Declaring it then became necessary to face "realities," Daladier said:

"We found ourselves faced with the following alternatives: "Either to say no to Sudeten demands and thereby push the Czechoslovak government into an unyielding position and the German government to aggression, thus provoking armed conflict which would result in the rapid destruction of Czechoslovakia, or to try to find a compromise."

PEACE IS CHOICE

"If the first hypothesis were verified, who could hold that Czechoslovakia's territorial integrity would have been maintained after a terrible war of coalition, even a victorious war."

"We chose peace. The French-British plan of London (for partition of Czechoslovakia) came from this choice, but at the same time we submitted these unhappy propositions to Czechoslovakia we carried to her engagements taken by Britain to join us in an international guarantee, for we had persuaded the British government to bring the help of its power and prestige to maintenance of peaceful order in the very heart of Europe."

RECEPTION IS COLD

As Daladier went on, his address was received coldly by the deputies and packed galleries. Except for bursts of applause when he mentioned the names of Roosevelt and Chamberlain, there was little handclapping and cheering as might have been expected from the premier's own majority.

In his address Daladier then arrived at events of the "crucial night of Sept. 27-28."

Sir Horace Wilson, Chamberlain's close political adviser, had returned from Berlin to London with Hitler's threat to march into Czechoslovakia at 2 p. m. the next day.

FINAL EFFORTS MADE

"We had only a few hours before us," said the premier. "Mr. Chamberlain's radio speech had warned the world of the gravity of the situation. We resolved to make a last effort."

Daladier then told how he and Chamberlain had instructed the British and French ambassadors at Berlin to see Hitler, and how the Earl of Perth, British ambassador to Rome, had been told to make an effort with Premier Mussolini.

"In that way," Daladier declared, "we were responding to the spirit of President Roosevelt's second message (addressed to Hitler alone) which so generously contributed to make a peaceful solution."

A machine gun firing 350 shots a minute was invented during the American Civil war by R. J. Gatling and later was adopted by nearly every civilized nation.

TROUBLED YOUTH has 15-year-old King Peter of Yugoslavia whose country is governed, because of his age, by a regency. But anxiety furrows even his young brow. Yugoslavia with Czechoslovakia and Rumania comprise Little Entente.

U. S. PROBE OF DOCTOR ASS'N TO BE MADE

WASHINGTON, (AP)—Chief Justice Alfred A. Wheat of the federal district court here ordered today a special federal grand jury investigation of anti-trust charges against the American Medical Association and the District of Columbia Medical Society.

Justice Wheat, granting a request of government attorneys, called the special jury to meet Oct. 17.

The justice department, represented by U. S. Attorney David A. Pine, and Allen Hart, special assistant to Attorney General Cummings, announced July 31 it would charge the medical association and its local affiliate with illegally interfering with Group Health Association, Inc. Group Health is a cooperative providing medical aid to low-income government employees.

At a recent press conference, Attorney General Cummings emphasized his department did not charge the American Medical association with monopolizing the practice of medicine but that the association may have conspired to restrain "trade" in violation of one section of the Sherman Anti-trust act.

New Attempt to Form Big J. C. District May Be Launched

COMMITTEE OF ASSOCIATED C. C. NAMED

Indications that there will be another attempt to form a union junior college district in southern Orange county were evident today following announcement that an education committee had been named last night by the Associated Chambers of Commerce to "cooperate with any interested groups" in the proposal.

The committee, composed of W. H. Crofoot, Los Alamitos; Willis Warner, Huntington Beach, and E. B. Sharpley, Santa Ana, will act only in an interested capacity, according to Secretary Harry May.

"Purpose of the committee is to assist any other interested groups in the accumulation of information which may be of value in formation of the district," Secretary May said.

Julius W. Markel, local contractor, appeared before the associated chamber last night, indicating that the defeat of the Santa Ana Junior college bond issue opened the way for revival of the federated junior college proposal.

With defeat of the bonds and of the federation plan, a revival of the old federated district will probably be attempted by interested parties in the county.

The Santa Ana board of education, however, will probably not take any action until word is received from K. A. Godwin, regional WPA administrator in San Francisco, President George R. Wells indicated this morning.

The local board has communicated with Godwin to find out about the PWA deadline for funds. Wells said that the board will probably not take any action until they are advised by Godwin what can be done. The situation will be discussed at the board's next regular meeting next Monday, he said.

Hope Still Held For Vernon Wilson

VENTURA—Vernon Wilson, Santa Ana, critically injured in a motorcycle - automobile collision, was still in a critical condition today, although hospital attendants said last night was "his best so far."

Doctors hold some hope for his recovery. Amputation at his right knee appears to have halted spread of gangrene in his fractured leg, physicians said.

Midway City Case Is Started Again

Because notice of a hearing last week on formation of a Midway City sanitary district was insufficient, county supervisors started the proceedings all over again today. Hearing now is scheduled for Nov. 9.

WALNUT PRICES TO BE HIGHER

LOS ANGELES. (AP)—Walnut prices will be higher this season due to a severe shortage in the California crop, Carlyle Thorpe, general manager of the California Walnut association, announced today.

"Prices are expected to rise somewhat higher in view of the fact that all old crop walnuts are entirely cleaned up, both in the hands of the packers and the trade," Thorpe said.

The California crop is now estimated at 44,000 tons, orchard run, approximately 13,000 tons short of last year's record production. There will be a severe shortage in the available supply of shelled walnuts as stocks available for shelling will only amount to approximately half the quantity shelled last year.

TWO HURT AS AUTOS COLLIDE

Two persons were injured early today when an automobile driven by Ralph Hoffer, 21, of 208 1/2 North Olive street, hit a curb and pole on Santa Ana boulevard and U. S. highway 101 one mile west of Orange.

The California Highway patrol reported Richard Howser, 24, 301 Fruit street, and A. B. Edwards, 24, of the same address, were injured and removed to the county hospital. The accident reportedly occurred at 1:30 a. m.

No one was hurt yesterday when an automobile driven by Byron B. Masters, 52, Orange, was in an accident on Ocean avenue at the intersection of Magnolia street, patrolmen reported.

Parachute Jumpers Aid Women Fliers

MOSCOW. (AP)—Two parachute jumpers were reported landed today to aid three women fliers, located yesterday in marshy land near the Siberian-Manchoukuo border after having been missing since Saturday on an attempted non-stop flight from Moscow to the Far East.

Radio reports to Moscow said two of the women—Valentina Grizodubova and Capt. Paulina Osipenko, were near their grounded plane but that Lieut. Marina Raskova, the third, was some distance away. Food was dropped to her by parachute.

$1000-MONTH INCOME LAID TO JACKSON

transportation of prisoners since last Oct. 28—date the controversial county salary ordinance took effect—was $1854.69, it was shown by the sheriff's figures.

Mileage for service of papers and process has amounted to $680.75 since last October, it was shown.

OTHER FEES
Those figures did not take into account fees Jackson gets for service of papers and process and performing other duties in civil work, which presumably amount to about $200 a month.

This it might be concluded that Jackson has been making $444 a month from feeding prisoners, $60 a month for mileage from serving papers, $200 a month from transportation of prisoners, $241 a month in salary—amounting to $945 a month not counting possible profits on the jail commissary—which Jackson disallows—or fees for service of papers.

$15,000 EXPENSES
Frank C. Drumm and J. B. Tucker, attorneys for the sheriff, said following Hervey's statement that income tax reports show Jackson spent almost $15,000 in miscellaneous items during the three years in which he made $16,000 profit from prisoner feeding.

Those figures, they said, were taken from Jackson's income tax reports and indicate amounts he must spend himself by virtue of his office. They said in 1935, when he made $5609 profit from prisoner feeding, he spent $5700 for this "miscellaneous" expense. Other years, they said, showed similar high expenses.

They claimed Jackson's receipts for fees and mileage did not represent clear profit because he had to spend money to perform the services for which he was paid the fees.

GIRL GUILTY IN DRUG CASE

Final steps in a marijuana raid three months ago by Dist. Atty. W. F. Menton's staff were taken today as Mrs. Aurora Castro, 19, abandoned her plea of not guilty to narcotics charges and was given a six-month county jail term as a condition of probation.

Mrs. Castro already had pleaded guilty to one count of possession of marijuana and had received a similar sentence. The two terms will run concurrently, Superior Judge James L. Allen specified. Mrs. Castro soon is to become a mother.

Her husband, Manuel, 25, is serving a year's jail sentence.

M'KINNEY WINS $950 FEE IN EDEN OIL CASE

B. Z. McKinney, hired as special counsel in the Eden Oil case two years ago, today presented and had approved by Supervisor Steele Finley a bill for $950 attorney's fees.

In addition to McKinney's fees, the county has been required to spend about $120 in court costs and $500 for hiring of an expert who found that road oil sold the county in 1936 contained large amounts of water.

The county was sued for $1729.70 in 1937 by the oil firm, headed by William Iverson and Don Jerome, because the board of supervisors turned down the company's bill for the road oil.

Subsequently testimony in the trial showed that water content of the oil—allowed as two per cent in the contract—ran higher than one-third. Superior Judge Benjamin F. Warner on San Bernardino, who heard the case, decided it as a "draw"—with the county getting no judgment for damage to county roads by the watery oil, and the oil firm failing to collect its $1729.70 price.

Lloyd Park Water District Planned

Formation of a water district for the Lloyd Park tract, south of Santa Ana, was contemplated today as Deputy Dist. Atty. George Tobias was given permission by county supervisors to prepare proceedings. The district, which includes 39 families, wants to obtain water from Santa Ana's city supply. Cost of the project would be about $7500.

He has played in virtually every picture starring George Arliss.

$233 Voted for 'Fools Rush' Probe

A bill for $233 for investigation of the "Fools Rush In" case on behalf of the sheriff's office was approved today by the board of supervisors.

The money will be paid Betten Detectives, Santa Ana detective firm hired by Sheriff Logan Jackson in the libel case now being considered by the grand jury. That was one item in Betten's August-September bill amounting to $399.70. Other charges listed were for "vice and gambling" investigations.

ORANGE YOUTH FIGHTS THREAT OF LIFE TERM

Battling against a perjury charge which would make his three-count San Quentin sentence a certain life term, Lawson Gist, 27, Orange, faced preliminary hearing before Justice Kenneth Morrison today.

Gist is accused of committing perjury when he testified in superior court at the grand theft trial of Tommy Rice, 25-year-old fisherman. Gist told Superior Judge James L. Allen at that time that he heard Alonzo Whyte and Tom Coultrup, Rice's accomplices, plotting in the county jail to lay all the blame on Rice.

G. Edward Brumbaugh, Los Angeles attorney who defended Rice in his unsuccessful try for freedom—Rice has been sentenced to San Quentin—represented Gist today. Brumbaugh was the attorney who called Gist to give the testimony which developed into the perjury charge. Asst. Dist. Atty. Preston Turner was prosecuting. Gist already is under a San Quentin sentence for kidnapping, robbery and grand theft.

I Just Found Out About Orange County

By BOB SWANSON

Bottling Works

A steady stream of liquid refreshments are produced by mechanical processes at Santa Ana's newest bottling works.

It's the Dr. Pepper plant, on South Main street, which started production here July 1. Twenty-four bottles are washed, filled, capped and candied every minute. When running full blast, the production hits 60 cases an hour, 545 cases a day.

To supply Orange county's demand, the company runs about three full days a week. The plant—fifth to be established in California—serves only this county. Other Pepper bottling works are located in Fresno, Stockton, Santa Barbara, San Bernardino, San Diego and El Centro.

Each bottle contains two ounces of syrup, highly concentrated. The syrup is made from a combination of fruit juices of every variety, plus citrus lemon acids, carbonated water and cane sugar.

It's only a matter of seconds for the syrup to run in the bottle, the carbonated water added, and the bottle capped and sent on for "candling" over an electric light. The bottle is conveyed through the machine on a conveyor belt.

The syrup comes from Dallas, Tex., where the drink originated. About two barrels of syrup are used each day through the plant. (A day begins at 5 a. m. and lasts until 7 p. m. When the plant isn't in operation men are busy on other jobs about the shop.)

Syrup is siphoned to a jar on the upper floor. Gravity forces the syrup from the jar through a tube, over a hose to the machine downstairs, thence into the bottles.

All water is heated and purified in special tanks. Lime is poured into the water to remove alkali, which Manager Allen claims is especially prevalent in Santa Ana water.

After the water is purified, it is run through an ice machine to reduce the temperature. The lower the temperature of the water, the easier it is to mix with carbon dioxide gas. The temperature, the harder to mix. Temperature of the water when it runs through the ice machine is about 34 degrees.

Manager Allen points out that the syrup gives the drink its flavor, the carbonated water the "bite."

One drum of carbon dioxide "bite" is used for about every 500 cases. The carbon dioxide gas forced into each bottle of the drink would ordinarily occupy a space 3 1/2 times the size of the bottle, according to Allen.

Before being filled, each bottle goes to a huge washer or soaking machine for cleaning and removal of any particles. Each bottle fits into an individual stall, is carried through the cleaning machine on a belt, dipped in caustic solutions and thoroughly cleaned with automatic brushes.

One set of brushes cleans the inside of the bottles, while the other clean the outside. After going through the machine, the bottles are brought to the starting point of the conveyor belt. (Bottles are fed into the cleaning machine by hand.)

The conveyor belt takes each bottle to a point beneath the hose where the syrup runs out, then moves on under the spout where the carbonated water is added.

As the bottle is filled with the carbonated water, a cap, or crown, slides down a chute and drops on top of the bottle. A weight drops, and the bottle is sealed. (The cap is flared, and the weight pushes the flanges beneath the locking ring.)

The filled bottle is carried along the conveyor to a table, where a workman holds it over an electric light to make sure there are no impurities or foreign objects. This candling process is like that used for eggs.

Four trucks deliver the product to the dealers of the county. Each truck driver is a salesman, contacts each dealer twice weekly to see that he has a supply on hand. Each truck holds 114 cases.

Associated Chamber Advocates Purchase of Beach By State

USE OF STATE OIL ROYALTIES ADVOCATED

More bathing space may be available to Orange county citizens if the resolution of the Associated Chambers of Commerce is acted upon urging the state to use oil funds for purchase of ocean frontage from Huntington Beach to the Santa Ana river.

The associated chamber here last night passed a resolution recommending that the state purchase the frontage for public use. A previous resolution had been presented, but contained several loopholes which made it ineffective, Secretary Harry May explained.

It was also hoped that the various chambers would adopt separate resolutions urging the purchase of ocean frontage, according to Secretary May. That the resolution would be adopted by the various chambers of commerce appeared likely. The associated chamber will vote on the proposal at its next meeting in Anaheim Oct. 25.

The legislative committee will have charge of the next meeting at which time several speakers will discuss the various measures to appear on the November ballot. A. W. McBride is chairman of the legislative committee, while Floyd McCracken is vice-chairman.

PLUNGE FATAL ON SHORT CUT

LONE PINE.—A short cut down Mount Whitney, whose 14,495-foot peak is the highest in the United States, led to death for Charles George Hengst, 42, of Exeter, Cal.

Rescuers, summoned by the victim's 17-year-old cousin, Herbert W. Hengst, of Woodland, Tex., reached his body at the base of a 200-foot precipice last night. Young Hengst said he and his relative climbed to a snow-covered government cabin near the summit of the mountain shortly after noon Sunday. Tired, but anxious to avoid being overtaken by darkness, they hunted a short-cut on the downward hike.

Complaining of faintness, the elder man seated himself beside a rock. Young Hengst said he looked back a few moments later and saw his kinsman topple off a ledge.

FIGHT AT 'HAM AND EGG' MEET

LOS ANGELES.—(AP)—Deputy City Attorney J. W. Joos waited today for Robert Noble, $25 every Monday pension plan leader, to bring witnesses to support his charge he was treated roughly when he tried to enter a $30 every Thursday plan meeting.

Noble sought a battery complaint against his former secretary, whose name Joos failed to get, but who Noble charged had gone over to his rivals and hit him in the eye when he tried to enter the "Ham and Eggs" meeting last Sunday.

Joos said Noble admitted he kicked his ex-secretary in the pants and got into the meeting, but not before another $25 Every Monday booster had been smashed on the nose. The deputy city attorney told Noble to bring witnesses and he'd see about issuing the battery complaint.

Theodore (Teddy) Raynor and Hugo Albright, whose late fathers were best friends, are mystified when they keep receiving peculiar letters from a Dr. John Smitting, travel-bureau operator, urging them to sign up for a cruise aboard a motor yacht, the Golden Gull. They call on him, and are told that it is being privately sponsored by an old friend of their fathers who prefers to remain unknown but who wishes very much to have them in the party. A stranger, Denis Graham, gets in touch with them, tells them that he, too, has been invited on the cruise, and urges them not to go, hinting at danger. Nevertheless, they sign up for the trip. Hugo takes Teddy out to dinner, and says he has learned that Graham has a mysterious background. He suspects the man has an ulterior motive in warning them against the cruise.

CHAPTER V
TEDDY was thoughtful, weighing Hugo's bluntly expressed opinion of Denis Graham.

"Hugo," she said finally, "I don't agree with you. I liked reply then checked himself and grinned.

"All right—let's not quarrel. We're two idiots to be fighting over a perfect stranger."

Teddy, too, subsided. "Yes—and anyway we're agreed that we're both going to be aboard the Golden Gull when she sails two weeks from now, and so—"

"By Jove!" Hugo said suddenly in a low voice. "There's Graham now!"

He craned out his cigarette impatiently. "If he's following us, I'm going to put a stop to it."

Teddy looked around and saw Graham standing in the doorway, in his evening dress.

"Don't be silly, Hugo. This is one of the best-known restaurants in town. It's just a coincidence that he's here."

AS SHE spoke, Graham caught a sight of them, and came over to their table.

"Good evening, Miss Raynor," he said, in his pleasant voice. "Evening, Albright. May I join you for a few minutes?"

Teddy smiled and said, "Please do," but Hugo glowered.

"I'm waiting for a friend," Graham explained, sitting down.

"And so you thought you might pass the time telling us some more of those tall stories?" Hugo said rudely.

Graham was disconcerted. "I thought I had convinced you last night."

"I didn't know so much about you then."

Graham raised his eyebrows. "And what have you learned since?"

"Never mind—I've made inquiries."

Graham rose. "I'd like to be friends with you, Albright—but apparently, you don't wish it. I'm sorry."

He bowed stiffly to Teddy and abruptly walked away.

"Hugo!" said Teddy indignantly. "Do you have to be such a boor?"

"I guess I did go a bit too far, apologized Hugo, guiltily. Then looking after Graham. 'I say! See the friend he's meeting!'

Just as Graham had reached the door, a beautiful young woman

CAN TOWN GET OUT OF SEWER SETUP, QUERY

BUENA PARK.—If Buena Park builds a sewage disposal plant, would she be able to withdraw from the joint outfall sewer system?

The Buena Park Business Men's association, backers of a proposition to construct such a plant, is asking the opinion of member cities of the outfall line as to the possibility of withdrawal.

While a bond issue for the construction of a disposal plant was defeated recently, the Business Men's association believes the defeat due to lack of information. The sanitary board found a different answer at every place they inquired.

No definite action at this time is contemplated, however, according to Secretary Karl H. Brenner of the association, in a communication to the Santa Ana city council last night asking for an opinion on withdrawal. The council referred the request to City Attorney L. W. Blodgett.

Similar attempts of the city of Orange to withdraw from the outfall line and construct its own disposal plant, opposed by the membership of the line.

FULLERTON MAN HELD.—Lupe Torrez Morano, 22, Fullerton laborer, was booked in the county jail yesterday by Brea police, to begin a 25-day sentence for violation of a chauffeur's license section of the state vehicle code.

mated loss of $1860 to property owners.

man had entered. He greeted her, bending over her hand, then followed her as the headwater escorted them to a corner table.

Every one turned to look at her. Though simply gowned, she created the most striking appearance of any woman in the room. Her hair was a natural gold that shone in the light, and her face had a beauty that was definitely distinctive.

"He certainly chooses well," Teddy murmured. Then, noting Hugo's expression, "Now what's the trouble? Does she, too, look like a crook?"

"No—I'm just trying to place him. I've a feeling I've seen her before."

"I should think she'd be a difficult person to forget."

"Yes, so should I. And yet..." Hugo shrugged.

A LITTLE later, they had finished their dinner, and were about to go on somewhere else to dance, when the headwater came up to Teddy with a card in his hand.

"Excuse me, Miss Raynor."

"What is it, Charles?"

"The lady there in the corner—with Mr. Graham—asked me to give you this."

Teddy took the card—a visiting card engraved with the "Miss Charles Winslowe." On it, hastily scrawled in pencil, was the message:

Please forgive this lack of conventional behavior. I am sorry to see you tomorrow morning? It is important

Teddy, astonished, read the message twice, then turned to the headwater.

"Do you know the lady, Charles—I mean, anything about her?"

"No, miss—she has not been here before."

Teddy hesitated a second, then made up her mind.

"Tell her, Charles, that the answer is yes."

The headwater bowed, and moved away.

"Am I allowed to know what this is all about?" Hugo grumbled.

Teddy, without word, handed him the card. He read it, then whistled softly.

"Well! Life was never as crazy as this in Chicago! I wonder who she is and what she wants?"

"With that beauty and chic," commented Teddy, "she ought to be somebody prominent, but Charles doesn't know her, and it's rare that he doesn't know anybody who is anybody in this town."

"New York isn't the only town in the world!" Hugo laughed. "But come on—let's go dance. I've had enough mystery for today!"

THEY went on to a night club, but Teddy couldn't get Charles Winslowe out of her mind. When she saw a friend of hers who was a newspaper columnist, she called him over to their table.

"Jake!—Hugo Albright," she introduced. "Jake does a gossip column. Hugo. Knows every one in town... Listen, Jake, do you know a woman named Charles Winslowe?"

Jake, who was a fat, amiable-looking young man, screwed up his chubby face.

"Winslowe? No, never heard of her... Wait a minute! What does she look like?"

Teddy described her.

"I do know who you mean!" Jake seemed excited. "What do you know about her, Teddy? Be a sport and let me in on it."

"I don't know anything—I'm asking you!"

"Well, I wish I could give you the low-down—but I can't." Jake sighed. "She's been in town only a few weeks, and is reputed to be everything from a Russian grand duchess in disguise to a foreign secret service agent."

Hugo suddenly thumped the table with his fist. "I've got it! I know now why she seemed familiar. But you'll be surprised, Teddy, when I tell you where I saw her before and what she was doing!"

Planning to entertain their husbands and friends at an evening affair Nov. 7 in the spacious home of Mrs. A. J. McFadden, Daughters of the American Revolution convened yesterday afternoon for the first time since their June picnic. The initial fall session was held in Mrs. George C. Perkins' attractive home at 2415 Riverside Drive, and featured a spirited address by Franklin G. West, who stressed the necessity for patriotic education of youth.

The speaker was introduced by Mrs. Cotton Mather, regent of the local chapter, who earlier had welcomed the membership and presided at a business meeting. In the order of ritual was the flag salute conducted by Mrs. W. C. Wilson, chairman of the committee on proper flag usage; devotion led by Mrs. H. W. Guthrie, the chaplain; minutes of the June meeting read by Mrs. H. R. Neill, recording secretary, and the reading of a message from the president-general, Mrs. Henry M. Robert, Jr.

Each president, in turn, presented to send a Christmas box to the immigrants at Angel island, and it was stressed that all contributions must be in by the December meeting.

PINZA TO BE STARRED ON RADIO

As a basso doomed to leer and smirk while the tenor smiles and beams, Ezio Pinza, celebrated singer of the Metropolitan Opera company, who is to give a concert in Santa Ana on October 17 in the High School auditorium, cheers the microphone as an impartial intruder according equal privileges to both the hero (the tenor, of course) and the villain.

The tenor, Mr. Pinza points out, with understandable anxiety, has always been the favorite of the composer who writes the opera to show off the beauty of the high male voice. Naturally, he gets the applause for his beautiful performance and natural sympathy for his righteous action as the hero, while the basso, in addition to being shunned by the composer as far as the main aria is concerned, gets the hisses for his villainous character.

"But the microphone has changed the situation to a great extent," says Mr. Pinza, "by broadening the repertoire of the basso. Once in a while he is actually permitted to sing something which will really display him as a cheerful personality—a song written in a key above the four lowest notes on the keyboard. It has made a new man of me. Instead of always feeling that I simply must cut somebody's throat—a mental state induced by my songs—I sometimes get the impulse to go into a happy dance."

Mr. Pinza receives frequent opportunities to display the lighter side of his personality. In addition to concert opera engagements, he is a frequent "guest star" performer on leading programs. This season he is scheduled for several appearances on the Ford Sunday evening hour and other network programs.

Their joint home was setting for the event, at 731 South Birch street. Tapers and colored decorated the table at which were seated Mr. and Mrs. Raugh, Mrs. Ella R. Miller, Mrs. E. E. Martin, Mrs. Maude A. Miller and Dr. Raugh.

Your Baby Book

By CARO COGAN

Quite the busy week, this last one, for the younger fry of Santa Ana, what with birthdays, school and other events on their busy social calendars, and we might say that if the kiddies keep it up, a "soc" editor won't have any trouble in future years ferreting out the news.

For instance, little Miss Charlene Lou Rumelt attained the age of seven years last Saturday, and celebrated said anniversary at a party with twenty invited guests. Showing a fondness for Snow White, Charlene Lou was recipient of a complete set of the pretty maiden and her seven little men, all embroidered on dainty hankies.

Charlene Lou is brunette in coloring, with luscious black eyes, which are fringed with curly black lashes. Quite taken up with her second year's school work, she finds less time to devote to aquatic sports, in which she is becoming expert, for with Daddy to teach her, she spent many days at local beaches this summer.

Another October celebrant, one day later, is Miss Janet Tidball, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Tidball, who shared anniversary honors with her grandmother, Mrs. Emma Tidball, Saturday, when she received guests in honor of her fourth anniversary. Again the Snow White motif, the little ones found a huge cake entering the refreshment table, with the Disney characters in prominent spots. All the trimmings, balloons, favors and so forth, not to mention an afternoon of games, went towards making the day one of fun for the kiddies.

A record-breaker already, and not even a week old, is the boast of William Dwight (III) Curran, wee son of Nan and Frank Curran. Although Bill, William or whatever he may be called, arrived a few hours ahead of Cousin Lolita Ann, the latter outweighed him by several ounces. Lolita Ann surprised her maternal grandmother, Mrs. F. F. Mead, by arriving at St. Joseph's several days sooner than looked for, thus making that lady a grandmother twice within twelve hours. She is the daughter of the Geoghegans, Lolita and Tom.

OCTOBER BRIDE IS COMPLIMENTED

Miss Margaret Abel, pretty bride-elect of Marvin Stuthett, is being made the object of several courtesies before her wedding trip Oct. 25.

On Saturday evening she was feted by Mrs. Charles Pannier and Mrs. Albert Brubaker, Jr., at a party welcome in its novelty of no card games. Rather did the guests enjoy several delightful song numbers presented by Jeannine Pannier, Beverly Hess and Richard Hess.

Gifts of a miscellaneous nature were then showered upon Miss Abel. Present at the affair were Mrs. Ruth Heiser, Mrs. Myrtle Elst, Miss Natalie Ely, Miss Eloise Hickey, Mrs. Irene Wren, Mrs. Ellen Teeter, Mrs. Frank Williams, Miss Josephine Butler, Mrs. Clarence Ranney, Mrs. Glenn Evans, Mrs. W. P. Limbaugh and Mrs. Hazel Armstrong of Santa Ana.

Mrs. C. Morrow, Miss Lillian Morrow, Mrs. Victor Stuthett, Miss Ethel Stuthett, Mrs. Oscar Stuthett, Mrs. Emily Walter, Miss Stella Labahn and Miss Charlotte Mittman, all of Orange; Mrs. Vesta Stuthett of Whittier, Mrs. Sarie Hess of Anaheim, Mrs. Ida Senti and Mrs. Christine Senti of Ontario, Mrs. Helen DuBois and Mrs. Ellen Teeter of Alhambra, Mrs. Elta Grace of Gardena, and Mrs. Dorothy Mittman of Pomona.

B. AND P. W. TO POSTPONE NEXT MEETING

Postponing their regular meeting of Oct. 17 because that night is the date of Mrs. B. B. Wellington's appearance on the annual Artists' concert series of Orange county, Business and Professional Women of Santa Ana last night met for dinner at the Doris Kathryn tearoom and planned a social gathering Oct. 21 instead.

Welcomed last night was Mrs. Rose Walker, past president, who has not attended for some time. Also greeted as guests were Leita Bernard, Genevieve Parker, Carmie Zimmerman, Claudia Robinson, Hattie Belle Wall, Ruth Rowland, Charlotte Caldwell Wanger, Maude B. Sloan and Mrs. Kent.

Miss Isobel Lindsey, chairman of international relations, gave an interesting summary of minority situations in central Europe, and Mrs. Emmett Elliott and Mrs. Grace Wolfe, program chairman, played a series of enjoyable piano solos, and an original skit by Mrs. Elliott, in which appeared Alma Zimmerman, Edith Coffman, Carmie Zimmerman, Dorothy Decker and Hazel Northcross.

A pleasant little family event of Friday was the luncheon at which Mrs. Maude A. Miller and her brother, Dr. J. M. Raugh, entertained to compliment another brother, Walter B. Raugh, on his birthday anniversary.

Their joint home was setting for the event, at 731 South Birch street. Tapers and colored decorated the table at which were seated Mr. and Mrs. Raugh, Mrs. Ella R. Miller, Mrs. E. E. Martin, Mrs. Maude A. Miller and Dr. Raugh.

It must be lots of fun for visitors to see both the babies at once, and try to figure which looks like whom, or vice versa. Anyway, William was the fifth baby to be born at St. Joseph's within the month of September, a record. Both children will have quite a few cousins to welcome them when they come home, one this Thursday, and the other on Friday.

Another little item we thought interesting, that of four babies being born to four mothers, all active in Junior Ebell circles, and order of arrival: Philip Hubert Gohres and William Dwight Curran, on Tuesday; Lolita Ann on Wednesday, and Master Russell Marshall Sullivan on Friday. The latter is the son of the Russell Sullivans and grandson of Mr. and Mrs. Marshall Harris; his mother was the former Charlotte Harris. With both parents teachers in the city schools, the youngster has a career already cut out for him if he follows in parental footsteps.

Future heart-crusher might be the title of Ronald Miller, wee son of the Robert Millers, who tips the age scale at five years and is beginning kindergarten this fall. He is a small but husky blond, with sparkling eyes and the most surprising voice, for as husky as his father's. Since beginning school, and following the custom of milk-at-eleven a. m., the mere milk bottle and straw wouldn't do, and making no bones about it, Ronald demanded a thermos bottle from which to imbibe said liquid. So Daddy, even getting a complete luncheon pail. Now, whenever visitors arrive, the basso-profundo voice says, "See my 'thermus' bottle." Every morning, in the Wilson school district, you can see Ronald hand-in-hand with Peety, son of Dr. and Mrs. E. L. Russell, going down the street towards "dedication."

Then there is the young man, also of the Woodrow Wilson edifice, who determinedly announces at 8:30 a. m. that he wants "to eat his lunch right now." Hope the novelty of taking lunches doesn't wear off soon.

CORRIGAN MOTIF IS USED

Mrs. Walter Templeton entertained for the first time since returning to her girlhood home after living a year in Los Angeles, when she was hostess to the Tri-Quad bridge club Wednesday evening in her home at 435 South Ross street.

When guests arrived they were greeted by a sign on the front door informing them they must live a year in Los Angeles, when she was hostess to the Tri-Quad bridge club Wednesday evening in her home at 435 South Ross street.

TWO GROUPS ATTEND PLAY AT BILTMORE

On Saturday evening the Paul Ragans, Joe Danigers, Charles Swannens and Hubert Nalls made up a party to see Gertrude Lawrence in "Susan and God" at the Biltmore theater.

Another party that attended the play the same evening was composed of M. B. Wellington, Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Lowe, Dr. and Mrs. John Ball, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Forgy, Mr. and Mrs. Horace Stevens and Mona Summers Smith.

Anniversary Of Chapter Celebrated

Forty-ninth anniversary of Hermoda chapter of Order of the Eastern Star in Santa Ana was celebrated last evening in the chapter room of the Masonic temple, with Mrs. Helen Lurker and Fred Pope in the worthy matron and patron stations.

Initiatory honors were given to Mrs. Alice Whitlock Theal, Mrs. Dan Rose McKee and O. H. McKee. Special visitors of the evening were Mrs. Nell Corkish of Pueblo, Colo., and Mrs. Minnie Shiltz of Hudson, Ohio. From the Santa Ana chapter A. M. A. and Holmes, Flora Bruns, Jessie Overton and Henrietta Roberts were present.

Special escort honors were given to 31 past worthy matrons and three worthy patrons, who were Ida Dumphrey, Fanny Reeves, Jean Bohlander, Elizabeth Lewis, Grace Wilson, Lois Osterman, Alice Strassberger, Bessie Moore, Maude Winbiger, Grace Finn, Maria Beisel, Henrietta Bohling, Vera Jacobs, Jeanette Terwilliger, Josephine Arpley, Adelaide Safley, Minnie Holmes, Dr. Ada Henry, Martha Reinhaus, Kate Barker, Dora Peas, Mae Thomas, Maude Watson, Minnie Adkinson, Mrs. J. W. McCormick, Kate Ross, Cora Rugg, Amber Burke, Maude Halladay, Mrs. Minnie Shiltz, and Flora Burns, W. D. Finn, James Tarpley and Arthur Peas.

The meeting adjourned to the banquet rooms, where 12 tables, one representing each month in the year, were decorated with the appropriate theme of the month. Presiding at each of these were two hostesses, and Bessie Moore was in charge of the program which was given during refreshment hour.

Since this was a special occasion, all events of the evening were in charge of the past matrons, and the banquet committee was composed of Lois Osterman as chairman, and Kate Ross, Cora Rugg, Jeanette Terwilliger and Bob White.

MR. AND MRS. WELLS RETURN FROM TRIP

Mr. and Mrs. George Wells of Victoria Drive have returned from a pleasant week's vacation trip made in the company of close friends, Mr. and Mrs. William Wells of La Jolla.

The foursome drove to San Luis Obispo, Santa Cruz, Big Sur, and San Francisco. At that point they separated, and the local couple went to Sacramento to visit their nephew, Stillman Wells. While at the capitol they encountered Mrs. William Gregg of Santa Ana and her son, Robert Scove, and the four breakfasted together.

Previous to their departure, Mr. and Mrs. Wells entertained at an informal little bridge party for Mr. and Mrs. James Tarpley and their houseguests, Mrs. Carey Browne of Principia college, and her mother, Mrs. F. B. Slipp of Portland, Oregon. Others completing the guest list were Mr. and Mrs. Ben Crawford, and Mr. and Mrs. Douglass Ferry.

HUSBANDS-WIVES BANQUET HELD

Annual husbands' and wives' banquet of the Dorcas society of the First Christian church was held last evening in the educational building of the church.

With "harvest moon" as the theme in the decorations, pumpkins and fall flowers in the brilliant yellows and oranges made the hall especially gay, and candle light served as the evening.

The Sullivant trio played during the dinner hour, with Mrs. Gladys Mills giving the invocation. Mrs. Gretchen Hill gave the toast of the evening, followed by Miss Jeanette Brown who sang several numbers.

Mrs. Marie Stead gave a welcoming speech, with a response from Josh Wilson. Willard Bassett, accompanied by Mrs. R. S. Briggs, sang several selections and the guest speaker of the evening was Ferris Edgar of Huntington Beach, who recently returned from the Isle of Cypress, where he was an educator.

In charge of the affair was Mrs. Elva Tibbals, who was assisted by Mrs. Mildred Weissgerber, Mrs. Georgina Allison, Mrs. Harry Swanson, Mrs. Rosalie Bassett, Mrs. Katherine Pratt, and Mrs. Virginia Frondren and Mrs. Marian Hill.

Dried eggs and egg powder are important exports of China.

"Laurel Leaves"

QUESTION
Southern California painting, regardless of what the surface indicates may be, is going through a highly controversial stage. It is a controversial point which can, and undoubtedly, will prove a stimulus to what has to be "saleable" painting.

The number of artists subsidized by the government is a relatively small percentage of those who have acquired brushes and tubes of paint. All of them want to, many of them have to, sell.

The Fine Arts guild of Riverside is composed of the serious painters in the Riverside area. In talking with them Friday last, I found the meeting transformed into a forum on selling pictures.

From this meeting I get such leading questions as—

Is it the painting that is wrong when low and medium priced pictures do not sell?

Do dealers have the right approach when they concentrate on wealthy collectors and museums?

What of the thought that producing artists and patrons might make a more significant contribution to our contemporary culture by functioning in separate groups or associations?

IS IT THE MIDDLEMAN?
Out of this discussion I have more or less come to the conclusion that the trouble may be laid at the middleman's door.

Art is a commodity, whose value is regulated by availability and the desire to possess. It bows to the inevitable supply and demand.

California painters are painting their best now. They are capable of more finished work (one must keep the pot boiling, you know) when they have patronage, but they are also offering worthwhile painting at what should surely be considered "bargain" prices.

Dealers, as in other fields, concentrate on the "big ticket," both as to name and price. Their "thou shalt not have" predication has done much to discourage many of us who have paid as much, or more, for a "department store print" as few might have for original from a contemporary painter.

There is then a need for dealers who are not afraid to take smaller, lower-priced, more suitable to homes, pictures and "push" them to the point that both painter and patron benefit from the interchange.

Decorators, too, need a "calling" for their going the easiest way and eliminating paintings from their schemes!

It is not easy to find a picture that will fit a given situation after that situation is complete save for the picture.

The problem ought to, and can be, attacked more directly by finding what the picture and the people who are going to live with it most need for their best functioning.

What will you, middleman?

EXHIBITIONS
There are many pictures these days to see.

As one gets his, or her, notions and indications as to "what to wear" from the magazines and window-shopping, so may you form your opinions as to what pictures to buy from public exhibitions.

Elise Lower Pomeroy's children's class take over the Abode at Mission Inn, Riverside. The inn has just concluded a most successful showing of Marian Curtis' watercolors.

Lithographs from the press of Lynton Kistler are now at Tustin Grammar school. This is the opening exhibition there to a group considered by painters to be most important to the future of American painting. What children now see is going to affect their own painting and picture-purchasing in times to come.

Oils by Frederic Taubes are on view at the Fine Arts gallery, San Diego. Taubes spoke Sunday to the public, will address members of the Fine Arts society next Monday, as well as being available for portraits and commissions during his stay in San Diego.

Rummage Sale Planned By League

The rummage sale which in the past has been so much of a financial aid to the Assistance league of Santa Ana in supporting the child's bed at St. Joseph's hospital and the maternity bed at Santa Ana Valley hospital, will be held this year Oct. 19 and 20, it was announced at yesterday's fortnightly meeting of that prominent social and charity organization.

Mrs. Edward M. Hall, general chairman of the sale, revealed that it will again be held at 418 West Fourth street, and stressed the fact that any donations would be more than welcome. Mrs. Lymar K. Farwell, Mrs. Hall, and Mrs. William Jeffrey are to be in charge of a collecting committee, and a truck will call at the residence of anyone with contributions.

Yesterday's luncheon and bridge occurred in the attractive home of Mrs. Ray Chandler, with Mrs. A. G. Flagg as co-hostess. Glowing pompano dahlias offset the virtually all-white color scheme of the modern living room. Mrs. Lloyd Chenoweth presided over the business session and Mrs. Wilbur Barr read the secretary's minutes.

Mrs. Barr will entertain the group at her home Oct. 17, and Mrs. Franklin West will be co-hostess.

MRS. LIGGETT HOSTESSES HER CLUB

Mrs. Delbert Liggett hosted her club at a dessert bridge in her home, 2323 Bonnie Brae, yesterday. Colorful asters and zinnias were background for a dessert course, and after the session of contract, Mrs. Jesse Elliott was awarded first prize. Mrs. Anna Kester was a guest, consolation award and Mrs. Charles Bowman, who substituted for Mrs. Flake Smith, was presented a guest prize.

Club members present with Mrs. Liggett were Mrs. George L. Wright, Mrs. Herbert Krahling, Mrs. Anna Kester, Mrs. Bert Miles, Mrs. W. D. Miller, and Mrs. Jesse Elliott.

MISSIONARY SOCIETY

First Christian church Missionary society will meet tomorrow in the educational building of the church. A session at which Mrs. T. D. Knights will present two chapters of a new missionary book will start at 1 p. m., following the Bible lesson at 12:30 p. m., given by the Rev. Walt Scott Buchanan, which in turn follows the regular noon lunch.

15 VACANCIES ON U. S. BENCH AWAIT F. D. R.

WASHINGTON. (AP)—There are 15 vacancies on the federal bench, ranging from the supreme court to district courts.

President Roosevelt has authority to fill them at any time, but informed persons said today his nominations probably would be delayed until after the November elections, and possibly until congress meets in January.

The vacancies include four places on circuit courts of appeal and 10 district judgeships in addition to the highest court vacancy resulting from the death last July of Associate Justice Benjamin N. Cardozo.

The lower court places resulted from an omnibus judgeship act approved by the last congress as part of the administration's program to expedite federal court cases by providing additional judges.

Justice department officials said prompt appointments would aid this purpose, but added that few judges would care to act until the senate had confirmed presidential appointments.

Although the President appoints the federal judiciary, subject to senate confirmation, recommendations nearly always come from the attorney general after investigations by justice department agents and consultation with senators from the states involved.

The omnibus act created a score of new judgeships. Six appointments have been made, but only one has been confirmed by the senate.

President Roosevelt selected Gov. James V. Allred of Texas for the federal bench there, Edgar A. Conger for the Southern district of New York, Francis J. W. Ford for Massachusetts, Leon McCord for the fifth federal circuit court, and Floyd H. Roberts for the western district of Virginia.

Europe's Always Changing

By The Associated Press Feature Service

You've read a lot about how Hitler has changed the map of Europe in 1938. But the map of Europe is always being changed by somebody, and chances are that there are still more changes ahead as nations rise and fall in power. Here is what has happened in the last century and a quarter—note the ups and downs of Germany, shown in black:

When Napoleon was at the height of his power, this is how Europe looked. The French had a huge empire and dominated a number of countries, including smaller German states. Note the size of Ottoman (Turkish) empire.

being along the Baltic and in Central Europe; Austria and Hungary were small, separate states; Poland, independent again, divided Germany; France was larger, Germany smaller.

This pre-war map had changed considerably. The German empire, created in 1870, had part of France, Denmark and Austria. Italy was now a nation, the Balkan states were no longer under Turkish rule, and Russia had Poland.

Today Germany is larger than ever because she absorbed Austria early this year. And Europe has come close to war because of Hitler's demand for Sudetenland—shaded. Hitler says this is his territorial demand in Europe.

Whales Looking Twice as Big As Their 36-Ft. Junk Menace Four on Pacific Crossing

LOS ANGELES. (AP)—There were times, Dr. E. Allen Petersen admitted today, when he and his crew wished they had never started their 85-day crossing of the Pacific in a frail Chinese junk.

Refreshed after the first night in nearly three months spent in a bed which remained horizontal, instead of "bobbing around like a cork," the 37-year-old osteopath who turned sea captain recalled experiences of the voyage from China to Southern California—much of it spent battling whales and fog.

In fact, he said like a true native son, they were off the coast of California before they struck really good weather.

Dr. Petersen and his bride, Tane, California-born Japanese, rested at the home of friends while he made plans to resume the practice interrupted while he fulfilled a long ambition to sail the Pacific—consumed yesterday when he brought his 36-foot Hummel-Hummel into San Pedro with two Russian youths, Nick Permyanoff and Victor Ermeleff, as crewmen.

Fog was their biggest problem, he said, for after two sunny days out of Yokohama, they went through a month of murky gloom, seeing neither sun nor stars. "We got far off our course," he explained, "because we had no means of navigation except taking bearings from the stars. Both the air and the water became colder and we knew we were being blown north. We had started out, prepared for a rather warm trip, and it was pretty uncomfortable."

As for the whales, they were present during most of the voyage. Once there were six of them. "We had continual trouble with them," he disclosed. "They were 70 or 80 feet long—twice as long as the boat. And they looked really vicious."

"We suddenly realized one day that we were surrounded by six of them. They were diving under the craft and we were afraid they would tip it over. They gave us some bad moments before deciding to swim away."

The junk draws only two and one-half feet and performed like a cork, making sleep difficult, Dr. Petersen explained. Added to that was the constant uncertainty as to what might happen to the nine-foot wide vessel next. As for spending the time, that was easy. "When we weren't taking care of the boat," he said, "we read books and magazines and played the phonograph."

As for Mrs. Petersen: "I think she did marvelously," the doctor smiled. "It was a hard trip for a woman. But she kept our morale up and did a fine job of cooking, even if rice was all we had most of the time. You know, cooking is not so easy when the stove keeps jumping away from you."

8 MEN PICKED FOR OCTET AT COLLEGE

Selection of the men's singing octet at Santa Ana Junior college was made yesterday, according to Miss Myrtle A. Martin, head of the college music department.

Members of the men's chorus elected eight singers during class-time yesterday. Miss Martin said. Those named are Horace Evans, Vernon Warden, Bruce Buell, Lyle Anderson, Ed Velarde, Stanley Sebastian, Howard Kern and Leslie Damewood.

The group will give programs for different county civic and other groups.

A women's octet to be selected from the women's chorus will be named tomorrow, Miss Martin announced.

Other plans of the music department include presentation of "Trial by Jury," dramatic cantata. The cantata is a tuneless presentation by Gilbert and Sullivan. It will be presented in December in conjunction with a series of one-act plays.

JEWS IN HOLY LAND ASK AID

TIBERIAS, Palestine. (AP)—Jewish residents of Tiberias urged authorities today to grant additional protection against Arab bands like the one which killed 20 Jews here yesterday.

British troops searched the hills for members of the band, six of whom were killed during the raid. Two of the Jewish victims were American citizens, Emanuel and Dora Kapin, brother and sister.

Moshe Shertok, head of the Jewish agency political department, voiced Jewish demands for additional arms, and Isaac Herzog, chief rabbi of Palestine, cabled British Colonial Secretary Malcolm MacDonald expressing the Jews' "great shock and abhorrence" at the raid.

No basement is necessary.

YOU CAN AVOID indoor discomfort regardless of wet, disagreeable weather and sudden cold spells. You'll have uniform warmth all winter long and freedom from dampness on walls if you install gas appliances for winter air-conditioning.

This equipment need not be expensive. Even some of the smaller appliances are available with automatic control to regulate heat according to weather changes. It pays to buy good equipment. Ask for furnaces or heaters that are vented. These assure the proper kind of warmth.

Especially recommended are gas unit furnaces and gas forced-air units for complete winter air-conditioning; gas floor furnaces and vented circulating heaters where wholesome, economical warmth is desired at lowest cost.

Take Part in New Venture

Speck Warner is one of the Pacific northwest's typical new tuna fishermen. Speck is pictured with his boat, the Vivian. He and others like him are helping to develop a new industry in this area.

Pacific Northwest's New Tuna Industry 'Miracle of Sea'

ABERDEEN, Wash. (American Wire)—Like a gold rush, the Pacific northwest's newly and almost miraculously discovered tuna industry is bustling with so much activity that plans are going ahead today to erect refrigeration equipment here and at Astoria, Ore., to help handle next season's catch.

The 35 tons of ice a day that the Aberdeen and Astoria, plants are able to supply are far short of meeting the needs of the 1500 fishermen who have patrolled the new Pacific tuna ground the last two months. So swift has been the first year's growth of the commercial venture that ice plants at both points and at Portland and Tacoma have all been taxed beyond their limits.

TIE UP DESPITE RUN
Besides the ice shortage, canneries of the Pacific northwest are not yet equipped to handle the great catch. Most of it has been shipped to California. So, despite the fact the tuna will be running another two months, most of the fishermen have tied up for the season.

Until a year ago, tuna fishing in this area was unknown. A few fishermen, however, set out to pioneer the industry. They were so successful that some 500 boats were launched this season between Destruction Island and Marshfield, Ore.

FINEST TUNAS
The tuna ground, which stretches for 200 miles, centers about 35 miles off the Columbia river mouth. There the fishermen—three in a boat—set out their lines and fight the black beauties throughout the night. They don't bite during the daytime. Each of the 15 to 20-pounders must be tackled, fought and conquered by hand.

The fishermen themselves are predicting a three annual three-month industry for the Pacific northwest that will support 2000 boats manned by 6000 adventurers.

Plans for a Republican barbecue and rally were announced at a meeting of the Orange County Republican Central committee held in Santa Ana last night. The affair will be held at Santiago park October 19.

The committee in charge, headed by Dr. John Ball of Santa Ana, said it expects to make this the biggest Republican meeting that has been held in this county in years.

Speakers, program features, ticket arrangements, and other details will be announced later.

At the meeting last night Chairman M. B. Wellington announced the membership appointments to the various committees which will function for the Republicans during the campaign. Committee chairmen outlined plans, covering precinct organization, rallies and meetings, and finances.

Ernest R. Walker of Yorba Linda heads the speaker's committee; Gordon Richmond of Orange is head of the precinct organization; Dr. John Ball heads the finance committee, Stanley Reinhaus of Santa Ana is chairman of the executive committee. The publicity committee is headed by A. W. McBride of La Habra.

L. A. Pastor Clear After Shooting

LOS ANGELES. (P)—The Rev. Frank H. James, negro minister, was cleared today by a coroner's jury in the fatal shooting of Juan Gonzales, 38, wounded while inside the minister's home.

The jury returned a verdict of justifiable homicide after the preacher testified he was awakened on the night of Sept. 20 by the sound of someone in his bedroom, shouted a warning and then fired three times. Gonzales ran from the house, then fell in the street.

Proposed Repeal of City Handbill Ordinance Meets With Opposition

U. S. C. LEADER TO ADDRESS CHEST CREWS

Volunteer workers in the Community Chest campaign will hear an address by Dr. W. Valentine Henley, director of coordination at the University of Southern California, when they attend the opening dinner meeting of the campaign Wednesday evening at 6:30 p. m., Community Chest headquarters, 215 East 4th street.

The meeting will officially launch the 1938-39 Community Chest campaign with a goal of $33,830 for the coming year's operation of Santa Ana's eight charity and welfare organizations. It climaxes weeks of preparatory work and organization which has enlisted the unpaid assistance of more than 400 men and women workers.

"We are extremely fortunate in securing Dr. Henley as a speaker," Chairman Robertson said. "He is known as one of the finest public speakers in Southern California and was head of the public speaking department of the University of Southern California. In addition Dr. Henley has had a wide experience in community welfare activities, being a leader in the activities of the Los Angeles Community Chest."

Dr. Henley's services for the open-campaign dinner were secured through the cooperation of Dr. K. Hammond, director and dean of the Santa Ana Junior college.

Campaign leaders are today checking up on their organizations to assure attendance at the opening dinner tomorrow night, and indications point to a large attendance and an enthusiastic beginning of the campaign, according to Chairman Robertson.

Advance gifts and central division workers began their activities yesterday morning, and while no official reports will be made until the Wednesday dinner, an unofficial check up shows a generous response on the part of subscribers in the larger brackets.

Single Tax Foes Talk Campaign

The advisory committee of the Orange County Council Against the "Single Tax" met in danger's cafe last night. The meeting was called to order by the general chairman, James A. Smiley.

Progress of the campaign against the "single tax" was outlined by the chairman, G. A. Raymer, secretary of the group, gave a resume of the work done thus far in the county.

Mrs. M. E. Geeting, field secretary, gave a report on the different towns in the county on what was being accomplished. Members of the advisory committee present were Ray Adkinson, Mrs. Felton B. Browning, C. Stanley Chapman, W. F. Croddy, Mrs. F. C. Rowland and Marshall Secret.

Ring Stolen From N. Main St. Home

A burglar who ransacked the home of Mrs. Margery Dorman, 2105 North Main street, escaped with a gold ring valued at $15, police reported today.

The burglar apparently entered the home by ripping the screen on a window. Other articles were left untouched, Mrs. Dorman told police.

Council Briefs

Application of Rev. Charles Nugent for permit to solicit funds for the construction of a new Church of God at Santa Ana Gardens was referred to a committee by the city council last night. Rev. Nugent said he hopes to raise $750 through solicitation to add to a loan for a similar amount from a local bank. Preliminary construction work has already started on the new building, he said.

City Judge Mitchell collected $2871.77 in fines during the month of September, according to his report filed with the council.

Application of Harlowe R. Billingsley for a special use permit providing for the rectory of a service station on Flower street between Eighth and Tenth streets was granted by the council after a joint hearing with the city planning commission.

William Iverson's application for change in zone on Barton street between Tenth and Washington from a single family residence to an apartment was approved by the council upon recommendation of the planning commission.

$50,000 LOAN GIVEN O. K.

City Attorney L. W. Blodgett gave final approval last night to the bid of the Bank of America to loan the city of Santa Ana $50,000 at 2 percent interest.

The bid was approved by the council last week, subject to the approval of the city attorney. A resolution was adopted authorizing Mayor Rowland and the city treasurer to execute the note, payable on or before Dec. 31, 1938.

The city is borrowing the money for operating expenses during the period while no tax money is being received. Loans were obtained from the county in recent years, but the county can no longer make such loans to political bodies, it was explained.

Kit-Skip Driver Suspect Arrested

John Crawford, 507 Minter street, was booked at the county jail on a drunk driving charge yesterday following his arrest by Santa Ana police at Santa Ana boulevard and North Flower street.

Police said Crawford failed to stop after his car hit a machine driven by Edward Rurup, 1025 West Fifth street.

An offer to lease 15 acres of city property at the city dump at $450 a year for oil rights was made to the council by W. F. Croddy, local realtor. The council referred the proposed lease to City Attorney L. W. Blodgett and City Engineer J. L. McBride for checking and report.

City Engineer McBride was instructed to inform the owner of a small residence extending into an alleyway between South Ross and South Birch that the house must be moved. The building extends into the alleyway nearly two feet, the council was told.

A proposed electrical code prepared by local electricians was presented to the council with the request that it be adopted as a city ordinance. The electricians committee pointed out that the city electrician now must make frequent interpretations of the regulations that the written code has virtually been superseded by a verbal code. The proposed ordinance put into written form the practices maintained here at present, it was said. The council referred it to committee for study.

UTILITY GRANT BEFORE CITY

A proposed ordinance granting the Southern California Edison company a new franchise under the terms of the state franchise act of 1937 was given first reading by the city council last night.

The franchise would be for an indeterminate period, and payments to the city could total 2 percent of the total gross receipts of the company.

Already advertised, the ordinance came before the council for public hearing last night, and was passed for second reading at the next meeting to be held Oct. 17.

Driver Injured When Autos Crash

Charles G. Glatzback, 602 Orange avenue, suffered a badly cut hand Saturday when his automobile was involved in a collision with a machine driven by Marcela Gomez, 618 East Cypress street, police reported today.

The accident occurred at North Flower street between Orange road and Memory Lane. The Gomez car was overturned. Glatzback was treated at the county hospital, then taken to his home.

TWO BUSINESS FIRMS RALLY TO LAW'S AID

Opposition was developing today against attempts to repeal the city handbill ordinance.

A petition presented to the city council a week ago asking the repeal of the measure drew the attention of two Santa Ana business firms, which rallied to the support of the present ordinance.

Writing the city council, the J. C. Horton Furniture company said that "we find there is a consensus of opinion that the present ordinance should be strengthened instead of repealed." Horton said "it has been our conclusion that the prohibiting of promiscuous distribution of handbills, which litter up the lawns and doorways of the residents and taxpayers of this city, has greatly improved the situation."

The Rankin Dry Goods company wrote that "there is being prepared now an answer to that petition by certain other business interests of this city, urging that the said ordinance be retained, and if possible, strengthened. In fairness to both sides of this question, we hope your honorable body will take no immediate action until the opposition can present its case."

TRIAL DELAYED BY ILLNESS

Serious illness of a material witness today had forced postponement of trial of Fred C. Gaskill on felony drunk driving charges.

J. W. Buck, driver of the other car in the accident which caused Gaskill's arrest, is critically ill in the county hospital, Superior Judge H. G. Ames was told yesterday. Although Buck's testimony at a previous hearing was read into the record, trial was continued to Oct. 17 in order to determine whether or not Buck will be able to testify.

The accident occurred last July 16 at Fifth and Sycamore streets, causing serious injury to Mrs. Susan Buck and Mrs. Roxie Bennett, passengers. Testimony by police and physicians indicated Gaskill was intoxicated at the time.

LOST THE 1924 WORLD SERIES FOR THE NEW YORK GIANTS!

LINDSTROM, 3RD BASEMAN, MISSED AN EASY GROUNDER WHEN THE BALL HIT A PEBBLE AND BOUNCED OVER HIS HEAD, GIVING WASHINGTON THE DECIDING RUN IN THE 12TH INNING, 7TH GAME, ENDING THE SERIES...
- Oct. 10, 1924, Washington, D.C. -

of the 24 men on the club.

In all the history of the World Series, no stranger match has ever been played than the crucial game at the end of the 1924 series at Washington, Oct. 10, of that year.

The Senators needed only one run to win the game, the series, and a check of $5,959.64 for each of the 24 men on the club.

Ruel ripped out a double past third.
McNeeley threw his whole weight into the bat, slamming the ball straight as an arrow down the third-base line. The ball went fast and bounced viciously. Third Baseman Lindstrom of the Giants crouched, reached for the ball—

Strange as it seems, the ball had been deflected at the critical moment by a tiny pebble directly in its path. It bounced clear over Lindstrom's head. Ruel calmly walked home for the winning run, ending the 1924 World Series amidst a roar of excitement from the stands.

A Christian Nation

Believe it or not, paganism is getting a jolt in the proverbial neck if statistics record the situation accurately. Even the circumspect church member will be surprised to learn that he has more church company than he ever dreamed of. To look at human conduct superficially one is likely to be influenced by that old assertion, "the world is going to the devil." But along comes the figures to prove otherwise.

The Christian Herald has just released its annual report which discloses a very healthy church membership, a gain of 754,136 in 1937, thirteen years of age or more. The publication listed the total membership of all religious bodies in this country as 63,848,094.

These figures are heartening. They will probably be a surprise to some members who may have forgotten the church was founded upon a rock "and the gates of hell shall not prevail against it." After all there may be a lesson in depressions, in that they teach the limitations of mankind.

"The ratio of church membership to total population has shown a steady and remarkable increase," said Dr. Herman Carl Weber, editor of the Yearbook of American Churches, "rising from 19.9 per cent in 1880 to 39.8 per cent in 1920, and 49.9 per cent in 1937 for persons thirteen years of age or over."

Dr. Weber said Baptist groups, collectively, are still the largest Protestant denomination, with total membership of 10,332,005, followed by the Methodists with 9,109,359.

He said the Roman Catholic Church remains the largest single religious denomination with 15,492,016 adult members.

The Neutral

The following is a quotation from the timely and most significant book, "And So to War," and is published with permission of the author, Hubert Herring, and the publishers, Yale University Press:

"The neutral nation, instead of teaching war, will educate its people against a future blighted and impoverished. The neutral nation will persuade its citizens to value that tranquillity and confidence in which there is strength for men and nations, just as the Scandinavian countries did with such conspicuous success in 1914-18. The neutral nation will exercise the unmartial arts of impartiality and go on building democracy with steady hands. And will wait.

"If the United States will forswear the quick excitement promised by the Sir Galahads, and take the harder way of neutrality, her hour of influence will come.

"If we will wait until the war has run its self-defeating course, wait until the antagonists have spent themselves and have faced the ghastly futility and inconclusiveness of war, we will have our chance . . .

"But, say the critics, this is pacifism.

"Neutrality is not pacifism. Stalwart neutrals would not deny the need for sizable armies and navies, and their willingness to use them if any nation or combination of nations will exercise the unmartial arts of impartiality and to preserve a zone of sanity no matter how many make war."

We Should Worry

Don't look now, but Dr. Harold T. Stearns of the United States Geological Survey says the level of the Pacific ocean has dropped five feet—within the last 5000 years.

Studying shorelines on the islands of Oahu, Midway and Guam, the student of cosmic dermatology has found that those tiny pimples on earth's face are five feet higher above the Pacific than they were at one time.

He doubts that the islands have risen, and speculates that increased glaciation at the poles has resulted in a decrease in volume of water from melting glaciers, or that the drop in water may have been caused by "adjustments" in the ocean floor.

In the first case, continued increase of ice at the poles might one day flop the earth on its axis—as it is believed to have flopped once before—putting oceans in new positions and greatly complicating life for surviving human beings. In the second case, if the floor of the Pacific is weakening, perhaps one day it will let that big body of water fall through into the earth's molten interior, and steam us all like so many clams.

Isn't it great to have something to worry about besides war?

'War' on New Front

"Very few of the film actresses are following the new (hair) style," writes a lady reporter who comments daily on the doings and undoings in Hollywood.

And that, if true, is one of the most important bits of feminine news brought forth in a long time.

For, if the ladies of the silver screen are undertaking to blackball a style that has found such favor with the ladies of the rank and file, an interesting conflict is in prospect.

Usually a drastic change in style finds its origin in a motion picture or among the well-dressed ladies of the studios, and the pate-full or piled-high curls is no exception. Marie Antoinette, or Norma Shearer, started the epidemic.

It's a pretty style and, although it's probably more bother than the shaggy, curly mane lying loosely on the nape of the neck, it has the added value of being new—and that's something.

Betting odds, if any, would seem to favor the ladies of the office, store and farm in this case against the ladies of the studio. May the best woman win!

Fair Enough

NEW YORK—Believe it or not, I once was offered $500 for a testimonial for a brand of safety razor blades, and at other times have been offered $500 for my indorsement of a brand of gin and the same for a whisky indorsement. That seems to be my rating—$500. Not bad, but not tops, either, for some very famous people such as actors, society ladies and athletes, have received as much as $5,000 per indorsement.

In the case of an athlete of national renown that would be a small price for a cigarette or liquor indorsement, because all Americans want to be big and strong and proficient in sports, and they would take such testimony as an indication that smoking and drinking make for athletic prowess, sharpen the eye, develop stamina and all that. It is hard enough to keep children out of the saloons even now.

I turned down all three offers. I turned down the razor blade offer because it made me feel good to think that I could set so high a price on my dignity.

Can't Tell Difference
Something of the same reason figured in my refusal of the gin and whisky propositions, but equally important, if not more so, was the cautious realization that people reading these tributes and then reading my stuff would say "that explains everything" or "cause and effect."

There was another reason, however, just for legions. People sometimes believe it or not, write me letters, free, expressing approval of my work, and I sort of figure that if I have something nice to say of somebody's razor blades, gin or whisky I should say it without charge.

I am not telling what razor blade company it was that offered me the $500, but I do not hesitate to say that I have used the blades for years and have found them very satisfactory. Of course, once in a great while I have come upon a blade that seemed to be somewhat saw-toothed, but I know that trifling slip-ups can occur in any business and gladly state that the blades are real good safety razor blades.

I have also used others occasionally when I have been over-nighting with some friend and have found them all right, too.

Three Months Ago
As to gin, frankly, I could give no honest testimonial for any particular brand, having no discrimination, although one of my best friends is way up in the gin business and tells me that there is all the difference in the world between his kind and some others.

The same for whisky. I can tell the difference between Scotch and American kinds and between pet whisky and alley-cat whisky, but that's about all.

If it would be any comfort to the gin and whisky trades I would gladly say that I have enjoyed gin and whisky on many occasions, although I hope it will not be amiss for me to mention that that was a long time ago. It was three months ago come the sixth.

I noticed that none of the manufacturers, not even Gene Tunney, the soul and conscience of the distilled spirits industry in manufacturing pure, nutritious, character-building stimulants, had been able to boil out the hangover ingredient, and I got sick and tired of waking up sick and tired.

Coed Leaders Like Children

PROVIDENCE, R. I.—(By Science Service)—College girls who lead their class in intelligence believe the mothers of just as many children in later life as their less intellectual classmates. They marry just as young.

This tentative conclusion, drawn from a study of 108 girls from the class of 1927 of the women's college, Brown University, is reported in the current issue of Science by Dr. Raymond R. Willoughby, of Brown. Dr. Willoughby had previously found that the most intelligent of men college students become the fathers of more children than do the least intelligent and that this was due to early marriage.

College women, like college men, fall far short of producing enough children to replace them in future generations. Dr. Willoughby's survey revealed. The 54 girls scoring highest on intelligence tests were blessed with only 36 children. The less intelligent group of equal size gave birth to 37.

Extension of the inquiry to include larger groups was urged by Dr. Willoughby.

New Voting Machine Out

WASHINGTON.—(By Science Service)—A voting machine for handling paper ballots similar to the conventional type but which, it is claimed, rules out frauds such as stuffing the box or removing the right-of-hand ballots from the bottom of the pile for marking outside the voting booth by local politicians has been patented here by Wendell B. Campbell of Morrow, Ohio.

Consisting essentially of a writing board to which the ballot to be voted is moved by mechanical means and a ballot box and mixing device which alters the order in which ballots are placed in the ballot box, the machine is designed so that representatives of two different political parties must unblock it after each voter has cast his ballot before the next one may vote.

Only one ballot at a time is visible and no others can be removed, thus eliminating stealing and marking of ballots.

Complete secrecy of voting is maintained because the fact that each voter turns the crank to deposit his ballot. He at the same time turns up a new one for the next voter, but he can't mark that new one or deposit it unless the machine has been unlocked once more by the two poll watchers.

Finally, mixing up the ballots as they are deposited in the box by the smart wardheeler who even now remembers the order in which voters cast their choices and correlates that order with the order in which the ballots are deposited in the ballot box.

Each ballot is marked by the machine also, Campbell claims. The machine is not related to the type of voting machine in use in such cities as New York.

The Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

Editor's Note—The Washington Merry-Go-Round's award of the Brass Ring is fittingly given this week to those who persevered for peace.

WASHINGTON—Future historians probably will look back upon the 10 years between 1928, when the Kellogg pact was signed, and 1938, when it was forgotten, as the years which gave the world its greatest hope for peace, and its most tragic failures.

The American who played the most important role in those years was the secretary of state who took hold of the Kellogg pact immediately after its negotiation and tried to make it a living, workable instrument.

Henry L. Stimson, secretary of state under President Hoover, is a gentleman of wealth, aristocratic lineage and indefatigable driving power for peace. Almost unaided he staged a four-year struggle to rectify the injustices of Versailles and stave off the forces which now hurtle the world toward war.

An age was dying—an age of international optimism, of disarmament drives and goodwill pilgrimages, the aftermath of the war to end war. An age was dying, and Henry L. Stimson, sensing the impending tragedy, struggled, almost alone, to give it renewed life.

The failures of that era are important as landmarks along the tragic path toward war.

First Test of Peace

His first struggle came in the summer of 1929, just as the diplomatic representatives of the world gathered in Washington to commemorate the formal ratification of the Kellogg pact. China and Russia were at each other's throats in Manchuria, and Stimson immediately jumped into the breach to make the new peace pact more than a mere parchment reposing in a dust-proof vault.

He called upon the Kellogg signatories to mobilize world opinion; and it is significant, in retrospect, to note that the only nations which declined cooperation were Japan and Germany, both later to become the chief violators of the pact.

Climax of the Russo-Chinese controversy came when Stimson sent the soviet government a stern warning to evacuate Chinese territory, and received in reply one of the most scathing diplomatic rebukes in recent history.

Stimson took his rebuff with the patience of a parent insulted by a punished child. He sat down and penned a statement which represented the peace policy he intended to follow—and did follow—a statement which represents the high-water mark of American cooperation in world affairs. It made of the Kellogg pact a new covenant, replacing the covenant of the League of Nations which the United States had rejected.

And Russia, despite its tirade, was impressed with Stimson's efforts and proceeded to settle her dispute with China.

Henry L. Stimson had won his first round in his fight for peace.

Japan Invades Manchuria

The next round also occurred in Manchuria, which Japan invaded in 1931. Again Stimson held up the banner of the Kellogg pact and urged its signatories forward. And again important European nations hesitated, especially those which had stormed and sneered at the United States for deserting the League of Nations.

Finally Stimson saw that diplomatic notes and trans-Atlantic phone calls were getting him no where. So, leaving a sick-bed in the spring of 1932, he sailed for Paris, determined to talk to the statesmen of Europe face-to-face.

Renting a villa at Geneva, he called in Ramsay MacDonald, Chancellor Bruening, Dino Grandi, Andre Tardieu, pointed out that aggression in that faraway corner of China was a greater threat to peace than the menace of big guns in Europe. Unless the mad rush of Japanese militarism could be checked, he declared, the league, the Kellogg pact, all the carefully nurtured peace machinery of the world was doomed.

The premiers of Europe listened carefully. They were practical men. Manchuria was a long way off. They were more interested in things near home. What could they get from Stimson for this faraway cooperation which he so ardently desired?

Andre Tardieu, the most practical, the most skeptical, the bluntest of them all, put the question. "Will the United States," he asked, "be willing to relinquish its traditional policy of neutrality in case of armed action by the League against an aggressor?"

Stimson gave the only reply an American secretary of state could give, that such things were in the hands of congress, but that every move which strengthened the world's peace machinery would have a favorable effect upon congress.

So Stimson was turned down. He had come to Geneva empty-handed. He had nothing to offer—except peace. Peace was all right as a principle, but to the statesmen of Geneva this was not enough.

With a new public works program about to get under way, it is worth while taking a critical look at plans for some of the improvements that are intended at once to make our communities more livable and to give jobs to the unemployed. Too often, public improvements have been synonymous with wholesale destruction by grader and steam shovel.

Recently a group of European conservationists and landscape engineers got their heads together and drafted a set of rules to be consulted when waterside improvements are being made. Their suggestions are worth pinning on the walls of local public works committees—and pasting in 'field supervisors' hats:

1. Improvements should leave the landscape as nearly as possible in its original state, or at least able to return to that state very quickly.

2. River courses should be changed only when absolutely necessary; and then they should not be rigidly straight, but laid out in gradual curves.

3. Islands, as ideal breeding places for wildlife, should not be destroyed or disturbed.

4. Streams' side vegetation should be left undisturbed as far as possible. If a stream must be widened, the cut should be made on the side with the least timber.

5. When trees and shrubs must be removed, they should be replaced immediately, preferably with native species.

6. New banks on a cut should be of natural materials, such as

Some Traffic

By CHIEF E. RAYMOND CATO,
California Highway Patrol

Twice recently I have been stopped for a road test of my driving head lamps. Am I compelled to submit to such tests as I have had my lamps adjusted? A. O. R.

A—Yes; there are conditions in highway construction and loading of a vehicle which probably made your lamps to appear, at a distance, to be glaring. The slight delay caused by the test should be disregarded in the interest of safety for yourself as well as other motorists upon the highways.

Q—Is there such a thing as a 30-mile speed law in California? N. L. B.

A—Yes, at highway intersections, on a through highway outside of a business or residence district, where the view is obstructed for 100 feet or more.

Q—Does a pedestrian have rights any more at street intersections? Several times I have been forced to jump like a kangaroo while crossing a street intersection to escape being run over. Mrs. E. I. U.

A—The law giving pedestrians the right of way at intersections under certain stated conditions is still operative. All drivers should yield and be more accommodating, but selfishness and recklessness and a desire to send an automobile around a corner at high speed is killing and injuring many persons annually.

Q—What can be done about these truck drivers who have equipped their vehicles with small spotlights which they use to dazzle lower built automobiles who have trouble in lowering their light beams to suit such drivers? Several times I have been dangerously near a serious accident as a result of such dangerous practice. M. A. E.

A—Your complaint is a just one and is receiving attention of our officers who will correct such equipment and arrest such drivers. This practice is one that springs up occasionally by persons taking the law into their own hands and applying punitive measures that cause more troubles than they are designed to cure.

Q—I would like to know whether I am right or wrong about this: In many cases I have been in the middle of an intersection when some other driver has come from an opposite direction and insisted that I was in the wrong and he had the right of way because he was on a through street. E. M. J.

A—The driver of a vehicle approaching an intersection of a highway must give the right of way to a vehicle which has entered the intersection from a different street or highway. Thus, the vehicle code specifically states your contention is correct. However, always be sure and come to a full and complete stop before entering any through highway unless there is a mechanical signal in operation or a traffic officer giving you the right of way.

HOW TO GET ON

"Tell me how to get on in life," said the kettle.

"Take pains," said the window.

"Never be led," said the pencil.

"Do a driving business," said the hammer.

"Aspire to great things," said the nutmeg grater.

"Make light of everything," said the fire.

"Make much of small things," said the microscope.

"Never do anything offhand," said the glove.

"Reflect," said the mirror.

"Do the work you are suited for," said the chisel.

"Be sharp," said the knife.

"Find a good thing and stick to it," said the glue.

"Try and make a good impression," said the sealing wax.

JUDGE STUMP

Dear Judge:
Has anyone ever figured out why it is the non-alcoholic friends always arrive in the midst of a cocktail party? K. D. V.

I'LL TELL YOU....

BY BOB BURNS

Los Angeles is busy straightenin' up after playin' host to the American Legion, and in another three or four years, I doubt if you'll be able to look at the town and tell that the boys were here at all. Personally I think these conventions are great things.

As one old fella says, "The public is fickle and are apt to forget that the boys went to France, but we'll never forget that they came to Los Angeles."

One old lady out here was very much annoyed at a bunch of legionnaires who were marchin' up the street singin', blowin' horns and shootin' firecrackers and she turned to an officer and said, "Officer, can't you stop those men?" and the officer says, "No, lady—an old man tried to stop those boys twenty years ago and he's still sawin' wood in Holland!"

Recently I flew from St. Louis to New York. The weather was bad, so the plane was grounded at Pittsburgh, and I had to finish the trip by train. A few days later I received from the airline a courteous letter expressing regret that I had been inconvenienced, and pointing out that it was for my personal safety that the plane had been grounded. The company hoped they would have the pleasure of serving me in the future.

Now, why do I tell you this? Simply because of the effect the thoughtfulness of this company had on me. One of the biggest airlines in America took the trouble to write me apologizing for the slight inconvenience I had been caused. It made me feel that I could rely upon this company, and that they are concerned first and foremost with my personal safety.

Then, however, much as we dislike to admit it, we all have a bit of vanity. The company had gone out of its way to contact me personally. Naturally, I realized that I was probably getting a form letter that had been sent to hundreds of other passengers under similar circumstances. But even if it was a form letter, I liked it. It made me feel that the company appreciated my patronage. My instant reaction was to want to respond to that appreciation by giving it to them.

The most valuable painting ever purchased by the Metropolitan Museum of Art, in New York City, was by a Venetian painter named Titian. The title of the painting is "Venus and the Lute Player."

You've heard of "Titian-haired." Well, this phrase was handed down from Titian's favorite red for painting women's hair. Let me tell you how he worked till the very end of his life. He was the painter of nobles and kings. He lived in a fine house in Venice, where the great of his day came. But with all the entertainment, he kept turning out one masterpiece after another, until—

One day, as he was working, his palette fell from his hand. When the doctors came they said it was that scourge of the day—the plague.

He was 99 years old, and possibly had little resistance. At any rate, there was little hope for him from the beginning of his illness.

The word flashed over the city and in spite of the danger, the people came all night long to hear how the great man was. He grew worse, but the drive was still in him. As the last dark hours drew about him, he asked to be carried to the window where he could see the church in which were some of his paintings. His dim eyes stared for a moment, then he made a sign to those at his bedside, and they bent near.

"There's still so much to be done . . ."

It was the end, but a glorious one—he was 99 years old!
